NAZIS LOSE 750,000, SAY REDS

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Reuters quoted a Moscow radio broadcast today as saying that German casualties on the Soviet Russian front in the past six weeks totaled 750,000 men, including 250,000 dead.

AT AN ARP RESCUE STATION IN THE LONDON SUBURBS, Jan. 21 (INS)—The German communique will read:

"In a severe daylight raid on London military objectives were bombed."

I saw one of these "military objectives" today—a large red brick schoolhouse.

A bomb had split it into a valley of death.

The children were in a particularly happy mood, for there was to be no afternoon school session. They were going to see a play, "Where the Rainbow Ends."

But the rainbow suddenly ended in a wall of flame and smoke. What one minute had been a solid institution of education and friendliness in the next minute spewed forth children, their books, their toys—and bricks.

In the school yard 30 dead little bodies were cradled in emergency shrouds.

A massive policeman lifted one child, shook his head and burst into violent weeping as he handed the lifeless youngster to a dry-eyed but ashen-faced nurse, who tenderly covered the child with a crude cloth.

CHILD IN RUINS 24 HOURS, LIVES

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—A rescue worker this afternoon climbed to the top floor of the shaky remains of the London school smashed in yesterday's noontime German bombing raid.

There he found three children about 5 years old. Two were dead. The third, a girl with an injured arm, was sitting on the floor more than 24 hours after the bombing.

"It's all right; I can walk," she said and, scrambling down to the ground, ran straight into a waiting crowd and found her mother.

REDS SMASH NAZI LINES NEAR SALSK

By HENRY C. CASSIDY

MOSCOW, Jan. 21 (AP)—Russian shock troops were reported pouring westward acrossthe Manych river today 15 miles from the rail junction of Salsk in the drive to isolate the Axis army of the Caucasus and clamp an arc of steel about Rostov.

Feverish German efforts to fix a stable line along the left bank of the Manych, a placid, lake-fed stream which flows into the Don 30 miles east of Rostov, are failing, field dispatches said.

Red Star announced that Soviet detachments were capturing point after point while the Germans were blowing up bridges and trying to lay more mines in a rapid retreat.

They already have been driven from a number of positions on the Salsk side of the Manych, it said

REDS VITAL OBJECTIVE

There and elsewhere on the long front the Russians were declared moving ever westward in the 10th week of their winter offensive, with Rostov, the steel city of Kharkov, the industrially important Donets Basin center of Voroshilovgrad and the Maikop oil fields of the Caucasus among their objectives.

With a northern army reported 79 miles east of Kharkov, at Urazova, a southern force swape 17 miles westward to capture Byelokurakina, 115 miles southeast of Kharkov, a special Russian communique said.

These two troop bodies threatened to form the pincers to clamp onto Kharkov. The troops who had reached Byelokurakina had accomplished actually the deepest penetration of the Ukraine Republic since the Russians were forced to retreat in this region by the Germans' 1942 summer offensive.

RECAPTURE BIG TOWNS

Byelokurakina is about 50 miles inside the Ukrainian border. South of that area, the special communique said, Red Army troops also moved into Byelovodsk, a district center 45 miles above Voroshilovgrad.

The Russian forces also occupied the four big populated places of Danilovka, Gorodishche, Bolshaya-Ghernigovka and Mityakinskaya, and the railway station of Chebotovka. The latter two, little more than 20 miles east of Voroshilovgrad, apparently were taken by forces which moved down the railroad from Millerovo to the northwest.

RUSSIA—The Russians pushed on Kharkov from the northeast and southeast today in drives which reached points within 79 and 115 miles of the steel city. A third drive was well west of the Moscow-Rostov rail line.

NEW GUINEA—Allied troops reduce Jap pockets around Sanananda Point as Allied bombers blast 10 Jap points, including Lae, Madang and Finschhafen in New Guinea and Gasmata airdrome and Willaumez peninsula in New Britain.

ALLIED PUSH NEAR TRIPOLI

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The British Eighth Army, with a fighting French desert column on its left flank, pushed Rommel's hard-pressed rear guard down the coastward slope from Nefusa ridge to within about 35 miles of Tripoli today in a continuing advance past the hill village of Tarhuna and the coastal road town of Homs.

The occupation yesterday of the towns, one 40 miles southeast and the other 56 miles east of Tripoli, was announced in today's Cairo communique which said Gen. Montgomery's forces pushed on "in close contact with the enemy retreating to the west."

Under steadily mounting aerial assault, the Axis withdrawal showed signs of disorganization, but informed sources said there was no authoritative indication that bomb-battered Tripoli was being evacuated.

On the Tunisian land front, where it was suggested new Axis offensive thrusts might be intended to hold open a corridor for Rommel's withdrawal, Axis troops made a new "small" advance against French positions southwest of Pont Du Fahs.

PLANES AID FRENCH

This was in the section where a communique yesterday disclosed a German penetration of seven miles. Allied bombers and fighters, including the French Lafayette Escadrille, are striking in support of the French troops.

Minor engagements continued in the Bou Arada region north of French positions. There a German thrust was reported yesterday to have been repulsed after a hard mauling.

Reports from the front said the German penetration in the ridged, ravine-cut country southwest of Pont Du Fahs created a fluid front from which a decisive battle of the Tunisian campaign might take form.

It seemed certain that an Al-

TUNISIA — British forces pushed down Nefusa Ridge past Tarhuna and Homs to within 40 miles of Tripoli. In the action at Pont du Fahs to the north, Axis forces made further gains against the Fighting French.

NEW LONDON RAID FAILS

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The known death toll in the London school smashed by a German bomb yesterday was raised to 44 today after rescue workers toiled through the night in the debris.

Three teachers were among the killed, the rest were children. Fifty others were reported injured.

One enemy fighter that appeared off the southeast coast of England was shot into the sea this morning by British fighter planes.

A strong force of RAF planes was reported to have headed across the English channel toward Dieppe this afternoon.

Memium bombers flew toward the German-occupied coast with squadrons of fighters on guard above them.

War Outlook Now 'Bright'

By JACK VINCENT

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (INS)—Undersecretary of War Robert Patterson today declared the fall of Axis-held Tripoli is only a matter of a few hours as he reported that the overall picture of the United Nations' global war against Germany, Japan and Italy was "decidedly bright."

The undersecretary, in his review of the war's progress, hastened to add, however, he was not predicting an early end to the conflict.

"There is bitter fighting ahead," Patterson warned at a press conference. "The country must be prepared for reverses and heavy casualties."

Patterson also reported that American and Australian troops, under Gen. Douglas MacArthur, in the southwest Pacific, had "literally annihilated" 15,000 Jap troops on New Guinea.

He disclosed also that large army reinforcements had been moved into Guadalcanal under command of Maj.-Gen. Alexander Patch.

Gen. Patch, according to Patterson, has taken over command of Rmerican troops on Guadalcanal, relieving Maj.-Gen. Alexander Vandegrift of the Marines. Army troops have largely replaced the Marines on the island and, Patterson said, "the Marines are now taking a well earned rest.'"

He highly praised the Russian armies for their victories, and declared the lifting of the 17-month siege of Leningrad comprised "one of the remarkable things of the war."

He added that German divisons before Stalingrad had been encircled and asserted the doom of the Germans in that area appears assured.

He declared it was evident the German armies in Russia were falling back to establish a winter line some place along one of the river systems in Russia. He declared Russia now held air superiority on many fronts because the Germans had been forced to move planes to the Mediterranean war theater.

Reporting that Germany had to send many of its battered divisions back home for rest, Patterson declared the two-month offensive of the Russians was "well planned and well executed," and timed with the Allied invasion of North Africa.

PAPUA JAPS CRUMBLING

AUSTRALIA, Jan. 21, (AP)—Allied jungle fighters, moving so fast that they didn't have time to count the enemy dead, further compressed Japanese pockets around Sanananda Point in New Guinea, while Allied bombers attacked 10 points, embracing practically the whole South Pacific area yesterday and the day before.

"The whole thing is crumbling," said a spokesman at General Douglas MacArthur's headquarters concerning the Papuan ground resistance of the Japs.

PEGGY'S FAMILY AT ERROL TRIAL

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 (AP)—The parents and sister of Peggy La Rue Satterlee were summoned to testify in the statutory attack trial of Screen Actor Errol Flynn today, as police officers declared they would demand investigation of her statement that she underwent an operation which the state stipulates was an abortion.

Miss Satterlee, tall, graceful and brunette, who charges she was ravished by Flynn, admitted under driving cross-examination yesterday that an operation had been performed upon her, inferentially during the period between the week-end cruise she made aboard Flynn's yacht Sirocco in August, 1941, and the time of her questioning last fall concerning that episode.

Lieut. Robert W. Bolling and Sergt. Edward Walker of the police juvenile control division, investigators in the Flynn case, stated after the close of the day's court session they would take action as soon as the Flynn trial is concluded.

"We questioned the Satterlee girl again and again about other men in her life, and she denied there had been any," said Lieut. Bolling. "Now this comes as a complete surprise to us. We certainly shall do something about it. If her statement is true, a crime was committed and an investigation is imperative."

The name of the man involved was not mentioned in her cross-examination by Jerry Giesler, Flynn's attorney, which elicited testimony on Miss Satterlee's part that she had told Deputy Dist. Atty. Thomas W. Cochran of the operation in relating incidents of her life.

"Did you not request the district attorney's office that they would not prosecute that man?" Giesler asked her, "and did they not promise they would not prosecute that man if you testified in this case?"

Miss Satterlee said she had made such a request but had been given no such assurance.

"You knew the operation you had was a criminal act, didn't you?" the attorney asked.

"Yes, sir," she replied.

"You know the district attorney's office could prosecute for such a criminal act?"

"Yes, sir."

"You knew they could prosecute not only you but that man?"

"No, sir; I didn't think of it."

Miss Satterlee testified that she had been in constant custody of various policewomen since last fall, and had been taken to picture shows, cafes and for bowling.

Council Will Rebuff Bushnell on Keniston

Overwhelming endorsement by the Executive Council of Gov. Saltonstall's appointment of Judge Daris B. Keniston as chief justice of Boston municipal court was predicted today as the answer to Atty. Gen. Bushnell's blunt criticism of the governor's choice.

Already publicly rebuked by the governor, in an open break between the state's Chief Executive and Attorney General, Bushnell will be rebuffed a second time when the Council votes on the Keniston nomination, it was clearly indicated by an unofficial poll of the members.

Gov. Saltonstall censured Bushnell for insisting on the appointment, instead, of Judge Joseph T. Zottoli, senior associate justice of the court.

Bushnell's words, "Now it is up to the Governor's Council," were regarded as a deliberate challenge to the council to reject the appointment, but it was freely predicted today that the councilors will not only support the Governor but make it unanimous.

WITHHOLD COMMENT

While most of the councilors preferred to withhold comment, their sentiments were seen expressed by Councilor Clarence A. Barnes of Mansfield, who said:

"The governor is still the governor. He has the right to exercise his prerogatives in judicial appointments. Unless there is some specific charge maintained against Judge Keniston, something I positively do not apprehend, I shall vote to confirm him.

"Incidentally, it appears to me that the attorney general should not only refrain from interfering in matters that are no concern of his, but should make good on matters which are his immediate concern."

This sort of reaction apparently caused the attorney general to stage a quick turnabout, because he later denied that he would try to influence the Executive Council to block the Keniston appointment.

He also emphasized that his demand for Zottoli's nomination should not be considered criticism of Judge Keniston, or of Judge Joseph E. Donovan, appointed by Gov. Saltonstall to succeed Keniston as associate justice.

"There is not the slightest suggestion that Judge Keniston or

LANE REVAMPING WOMEN'S CORPS

Confident of the patriotic loyalty of the majority of Massachusetts Women's Defense Corps members, Maj. John J. Lane, corps co-ordinator, today continued preparations—with "hot flashes"—for his drastic military reorganization of the unit.

He said there was "no basis" for reports that Mrs. Grace Coolidge of Northampton, widow of President Coolidge, would succeed Col Natalie Hays Hammond as commandant of the corps.

"But we would love to have her," he added.

Mrs. Coolidge, indicating "she might be receptive to an offer to head the MWDC, said no official had mentioned the possibility to her, "up to the present."

Maj. John M. Lane

"I would have to hear from Maj. Lane or some other official before I could make a decision," she said.

The former First Lady of the nation is a member of the Northampton civilian defense unit and is one of a set operating a warning center.

Choice of Miss Hammond's successor was but one of several major tasks facing Maj. Lane and Director J. Wells Farley of the State Public Safety Committee. The first step in revamping the corps will be made tomorrow at a meeting of nine regional commanding officers with Maj. Lane at the corps headquarters.

"The corps will continue its training and service as usual; there will be no cessation of corps activities," Maj. Lane said.

One of the first moves, he hinted, will be the immediate decommissioning of all officers, with only those holding key positions or showing exceptional merit records to be recommissioned. He also disclosed that married women with children will be asked to resign.

Several officials expressed fear the corps members might have to

Big War Fund Drive Opens

Boston observed "Red Feather Day" today in marking official opening of the house-to-house canvass of the Greater Boston United War Fund to raise $7,800,000 for war and home front services.

Highlights of the opening day program included the appearance of a galaxy of movie, stage and radio stars at a a five-hour open house party at the Buddies' and Bay State clubs on Boston Common, and at an evening rally at Boston Garden, and graphic window displays in downtown stores.

The Garden rally was set to mark the individual subscription efforts of more than 40,000 volunteer workers who will solicit both presidents and office workers in all sections of Greater Boston. They seek to attain the Fund goal before the deadline on Feb. 10.

The "open house" program at the service clubs on the Common will be held from 12 noon to 5 p. m. Stars of the entertainment world, who will be present at the gala opening night rally

DEMPSEY NAMES 2 OTHER MEN IN SUIT

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (INS)—Former Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins and Benny Woodall, Dallas, Tex., boxing promoter, have been named by Jack Dempsey in the divorce complaint in which he charges his wife with misconduct, the New York Journal-American stated today.

The one-itme king of the world's heavyweights seeks an absolute divorce from the former Hannah Williams, singer of such popular ballads of bygone days as "Cheerful Little Earful," as well as custody of their two young daughters, Barbara, 6, and Joan, 8.

The Dempsey suit, which brought a counteraction for a separation from Mrs. Dempsey, will be tried next month in White Plains Supreme Court without a jury. The Journal-American stated that it had been informed by friends of Dempsey, now a lieutenant commander in the Coast Guard, that the former heavyweight champion threw his last "punch" in the form of the divorce suit when Hannah rejected his proposal that she seek a divorce in Reno and give him custody of the children.

DEMPSEY K. O'S HIM

The Journal-American story added:

"Jenkins, according to reports in sports circles, already has felt the shock of the fist that once ruled the world. Dempsey, friends said, knocked him out cold when he entered Dempseys' Broadway restaurant. He was knocked through the door and revived on the street.

"Included in Dempsey's charges against Hannah is a description of an alleged raid on her Los Angeles apartment on Nov. 22 last. With three friends, Dempsey allegedly raided the apartment and found Woodall clad for occupancy of one of the twin beds with Hannah in the other.

"In denying the charges Hannah claimed Woodall had been forced into her apartment, his shoes put under the bed and that he had then been badly beaten.

She was alone at the time, she said, only because her sister, Dorothy Williams Gomez, had left the apartment to obtain some medicine.

"Dorothy has been described by Dempsey in his court papers as one of the alleged 'bad associates' of his wife. He claims that last February he found his wife and her sister entertaining three men 'whom I do not like.' He said he evicted them and that Dorothy was 'lying on the floor, screaming drunkenly.'

TRIP TO PHILADELPHIA

"Included in the court papers is an affidavit from Willie Friedland, friend of Dempsey and former manager of Jenkins.

"Friedland stated that on Sept. 16, 1940, he drove Jenkins to a fight in Philadelphia, that Hannah accompanied the fighter, and that the two were extremely attentive to each oher."

Dempsey also charges his wife with extravagance and excessive drinking. She accuses him of cruelty, beating her and humiliating her by his attention to other women at parties.

Hannah has denied being unfaithful and in her separation suit seeks custody of the children. Their romance never has run smoothly since they were married nine years ago, being marred by numerous quarrels and separation.

Pending hearing of the suits, Hannah, who quit the musical comedy stage to marry, has been awarded $500 a month temporary alimony and $2500 counsel fees.

Landlord Finds Self Evicted

DETROIT, Jan 21 (AP)—Joseph Deeb, a Dearborn landlord, got a court order for eviction of a tenant. But the constable failed to serve the eviction notice on the specified date and, meanwhile, the tenant left voluntarily.

Then the constable showed up. Finding no one at home, he entered by force, as permitted by the court, and emptied five roomsful of new furniture into the street.

Then Deeb appeared, hot under the collar. It was his furniture. He had become the sole tenant.

Commissioner William J. Cody of circuit court said he was sorry but there was nothing to be done about it. Deeb had to pay the constable $25—the eviction fee is $5 a room—and pay another party $7 to help him put his belongings back.

MINE STRIKERS BOW TO F. D., THOUSANDS BACK AT WORK

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., Jan. 21 (AP)—A three-weeks old wildcat strike in the Pennsylvania antracite fields—the nation's costliest in man hours lost since Pearl Harbor—apparently ended today a few hours before a back-to-work deadline set by President Roosevelt.

Thousands trooped back to their jobs in all major strike-closed collieries in what one strike leader described as "a courtesy to the President" rather than an acceptance of defeat.

Of the 24,000 who once participated in the revolt against United Mine Workers' leadership, barely 3000 were known still to be idle.

Two of the four small UMW locals still out announced meetings for later today. Many believed back-to-work votes would result.

Only one of the four was committed to "wait out" Mr. Roosevelt's zero hour some time this afternoon, when, he had said, the "necessary staps" would be taken if necessary to "end this strike which is doing serious damage to the war effort."

"There is nothing to gain by staying out," said Hugh Cavanaugh, president of the South Wilkes-Barre Colliery Local of Glen Alden Coay Co., the world's largest anthracite producer.

"We do not want to embarrass the President," he added. "But we will continue to fight against the 50 cents a month unioln dues increase and also for an increase in wages."

The dues issue started the wave of walkouts Dec. 30. Demands for a $2-a-day cost-of-living bonus followed.

MORE TANK CARS, TRUCKS RUSH OIL HERE IN CRISIS

With 1900 additional tank cars made available in the last ten days for transportation of fuel oil to the East, and the assignment of 892 trucks to replace tank cars now being used in shuttling oil short distances, a bright spot loomed today in the New England fuel shortage crisis.

Congresswoman Edith Nourse Rogers of Lowell, made these announcements today in Washington simultaneously with her plans to confer with WPB officials in an effort to have 5000 new tank cars constructed.

Mrs. Rogers' optimistic report, however, was somewhat offset by the weather bureau forecast that a new cold wave was blowing in from mid-West where temperatures range from 20 to 50 below zero.

Local OPA officials fear a new crisis as fuel oil supplies are running dangerously low and kerosene stocks—despite the unexpected arrival of 150,000 gallons—virtually are at the vanishing point.

Dealers in Springfield, Holyoke, New Bedford, Brockton and other nearby cities report their tanks are empty.

The mercury tumbled to 6 above in Boston at 6:30 this morning, while many suburban cities and towns shivered in temperatures several degrees below the zero mark.

"Continued cold today and tonight" was the U. S. weather bureau's official forecast. To increase the harshness of the cold, the wind will grow more severe again, forecasters said.

AT A U. S. NAVAL BASE, Brazil, Jan. 15 (Delayed) (INS)—Important war materials, to be used in the Allies' expanding offensive in the South Atlantic, arrived at this naval base today following a dash through the hunting grounds of Axis submarines.

The ships also carried naval personnel who will be attached to the force of Vice-Admiral Jonas H. Ingram, commander of the South Atlantic theater of operations.

The material unloaded here included everything from bombs and depth charges to heavy duty trucks for the shore station.

Naval personnel reporting were line officers, fliers and enlisted men of many ratings.

Admiral Ingram said:

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 21 (AP)—A member of the family of Maj Eric Knight, popular author who recently re-entered Army service, said today the War Department has notified the family that Knight was on an Army plane which crashed in South America en route to Africa.

Mrs. Edward Brylawski, Knight's mother-in-law, said the family "believed" he had been killed.

Best known for his novels, "This Above All" and "The Flying Yorkshireman," Knight was born in Yorkshire, Eng., and after the death of his father in the Boer war was taken to Russia, where his mother became governess to Princess Xenia's children.

Coming to the United States as a youth, he became a newspaper copy boy, later attending Cambridge, Mass., Latin School and several art schools. After serving in the Canadian army in the World War he became a newspaper cartoonist and writer in Philadelphia.

The writer, E. E. Cummings, started him on his fiction-writing career when Knight was working in Hollywood in 1933. In recent years Knight has lived on a Bucks County, Pa., farm.

Hair Color? Green! Believe It or Not!

FT. JACKSON, S. C., Jan. 21 (AP)—"Color of hair?"

"Green."

"Cut the kidding," growled the reception center sergeant.

"I'm not kidding," replied Pvt. Adlia Harwood of Asheville, N. C., "I don't like it, either."

The sergeant looked up.

Sure enough, the recuit's hair was a grassy green.

It got that way, Pvt. Harwood explained, while he worked with chemicals in a naval ammunition depot.

"I have washed my hair with soap and lots of things, but it just won't come out," the soldier sighed.

Arson Squad In Grove Quiz

Members of the police arson squad were scheduled to resume testimony today at Fire Commr. William Arthur Reilly's inquest into cause of the Cocoanut Grove fire disaster of last Nov. 28 which took 489 lives.

Squad members Louis Cohen, Richard Roycroft, James Bateman, John Downey, James McTigue and John Hanley, were to follow a dealer in fire extinguishers as witnesses at the secret inquest session. The dealer, Stanley Robinson of Bedford st., Boston, was questioned at length by Commr. Reilly. He installed and maintained fire extinguishers at the night club.

As the closed probe continued, Reilly announced that later this week he will visit Massachusetts General and City Hospitals to question 20 disaster victims about their experiences and observations during the fire. His hospital interviews already have been once postponed.

WLB CHIEF IN HUB TALK

Seventy-five per cent of the wage increase requests submitted for approval to the National War Labor Board since Oct. 3 have come from employers, William H. Davis, chairman of the board, today told a luncheon meeting of the Boston Chamber of Commerce at the Copley-Plaza.

The Administration, he said, is bending every effort to hold wages down to a specified level to avoid the threat of inflation.

He pointed out that any existing inequalities in wage levels were being adjusted by the board to bring them in line with the higher cost of living.

"New England will have its own War Labor Board," he said. "It will have a chance to better the record of the national board, which shows that two-thirds of our decisions have been unanimous.

LA GUARDIA TO BE CALLED IN FLYNN SENATE INQUIRY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Senate's investigation of the qualifications of Edward J. Flynn to be minister to Australia, which drew a capacity crowd at yesterday's opening sessions, will be resumed tomorrow with six additional New York witnesses invited to appear. Among them is Mayor Fiorella H. LaGuardia.

LaGuardia had been suggested as a witness by both Flynn and his opponents. The five others were proposed by the opposition.

The initial hearing was marked by a cry of "perjury" against Flynn's own disclaimer of any wrongdoing while he was Bronx County Sheriff and New York city chamberlain, plus a running conflict between Sen. Connally and Sidney Baron, 30-year-old Brooklyn public relations counsel and secretary of a committee to reopen the Flynn paving block case.

Baron testified that Flynn had perjured himself in earlier testimony and declared more than 20 persons, whom he asked be called as witnesses, would prove that the former Democratic national chairman lied on every main point of his defense.

Baron proposed that LaGuardia should be questioned on whether he had not at least twice declared that "Compared with Ed Flynn, Boss Tweed was just an amateur crook."

Flynn had suggested LaGuardia be called in the belief the mayor would testify Flynn had been a victim of a political "frame-up."

Baron charged Flynn had perjured himself when he testified he gave the late Dutch Schultz, notorious gangster, a "special deputy" badge in 1935 while Flynn was sheriff.

He said Schultz was made a deputy sheriff and there was no such title as "special deputy sheriff."

Flynn testified that he gave Schultz the honorary, non-salaried appointment under the name of Arthur Flegenheimer, not knowing the man was the gangster Schultz.

Sheds Dress, Hubby in Court

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Superior Judge Frank M. Smith's aversion to slacks in the courtroom failed to impede Mrs. Dorothy Abraham. Her resourcefulness divested her of two annoyances, her hubby and cotton dress.

Judge Smith objected to her slacks in court yesterday. So she went to a nearby store, bought a cotton dress, put it on over the slacks and pulled up the legs of the slacks.

Then she returned and got a divorce from George Abraham, now in the Army. Abraham, she charged, disapproved of her three children by a previous marriage.

Granted her decree, she pulled of the dress and strode out of the courtroom—in her slacks.

PITKIN SEES WAR CHANGES

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (AP)—Prof. Walter Pitkin, who contends that "life begins at forty" and who wrote a best-seller by that name when in his fifties to prove it, is retiring at the age of 65 after 30 years on the faculty of Columbia University graduate school of journalism.

Prof. Pitkin

He plans to tour the country and study consumer problems and the potential post-war picture of American life.

He predicted that many soldiers won't come home after the war "because they will find better jobs overseas than await them here."

He also thinks 1,000,000 Americans will be employed in a world-wide network of airlines by 1950, while another 2,000,000 will be engaged in foreign police duty.

In a final splurge of prediction he said he believed that Russia might turn to capitalism, China to Communism and that 250,000,000 persons would starve in Asia after the war.

He also foresaw many upsets in this country: finer homes, but a transient population that wouldn't live in them; inventions that would "revolutionize things" and, inevitably, "many political headaches."

BOMBER ACES NAMED BY U. S.

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA, Jan. 21 (AP) — Ten American officers and enlisted men, members of the crews of bombing planes which destroyed five or more enemy aircraft in combats in the southwest Pacific area, become bomber aces today in the official box score compiled by Lieut.-Gen. Since it is virtually impossible to give credit for knocking down a Zero to any one member of a bomber crew, the official list of enemy planes destroyed credits each member of the crew participating in the kill.

Officers and men credited with having participated in bomber versus Zero air battles in which at least four enemy planes were destroyed included these New England men: Capt. Ernest L. BABY FOODS INCLUDED IN NEW POINT RATIONS REGULATIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—The Office of Price Administration announced today many canned foods for babies will be rationed under the same point system to be used for rationing of processed fruits and vegetables.

No date has been set for the start of point rationing of processed fruits and vegetables, but the program will begin as soon as OPA has set up necessary machinery.

The number of foods OPA may ration has been increased to cover evaporated and condensed milk, canned fish and shellfish, jams, jellies, preserves, pickles, relishes and canned products containing meat, but Price Administrator Brown said that did not mean they would be rationed immediately.

Baby foods to be rationed, will include strained or chopped foods made of fruits, vegetables, or meats and put up in sealed cans or glass jars, generally 4½ or 6½ ounce containers.

Such baby foods as canned milk, canned milk formulas, and canned, prepared cereals, are not included among the processed foods to be rationed.

BROWN TAKES OVER OPA RULE, PLEDGES PUBLIC PROTECTION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Given a free hand to make or break himself, Prentiss M. Brown set sail on stormy OPA seas today with a bid for consumer support of a program envisioning gradually rising prices, increased local controls over rationing and fewer cold homes next winter.

The nation's new price administrator said in a press conference that he was taking over OPA with the primary objective of protecting the American consumer.

Brown, 53-year-old former senator from Michigan, took over formally from Leon Henderson with the reputed understanding that he would be given a free hand to work out the country's supply and demand problems with the consuming public, Congress and the farmers.

His first contact with Congress in his new role probably will come when he petitions for more money to operate the OPA until the end of this fiscal year.

His next step may be indirect sponsorship of a Reconstruction Finance Corporation plea for an additional $5,000,000,000 in borrowing and lending authority, a share of which would be used to pay subsidies on the transportation of coal and gasoline in the Eastern States. Brown said flatly he favored transportation subsidies.

Few OPA personnel changes are expected, but Brown probably will make a place in his organization for two defeated colleagues, former Sen. Clyde Herring (D.) of Iowa and former Rep. Frank E. Hook (D.) of Michigan.

Brown said he planned to keep the economic machinery at top speed to supply the weapons and food needed by the armed forces, without creating unnecessary friction on the home front.

"The keynote of rationing and price control will not be imposition, but protection of the public," he told a crowded press conference.

One of his first projects, he said, would be to learn if water route transportation could not be used this summer in building up the Eastern seaboard's supplies of fuel oil and gasoline for next winter.

"The winter of 1943-44 should certainly be better than this one because we ought to be better prepared," he commented.

WAR ON SUBS VICTORY KEY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (INS)—There was some talk in diplomatic circles in Washington today of the possibility of establishing an Anglo-American unified command to direct the counter-offensive against the German submarine menace in the Atlantic.

There were indications that the British would welcome such a move, especially if the job was given to Admiral Sir Percy Noble, head of the British admiralty delegation in Washington, who formerly directed the anti-submarine campaign in the British Isles.

The view prevailed strongly that the U. S. and Great Britain must find a way to overcome the German submarine menace, now regarded as the most serious obstacle to ultimate victory over the Axis powers.

The German submarine campaign in the Atlantic is considered the only successful major offensive in which the Axis powers are now engaged.

Admiral Noble says the Allies may not be able to win the war unless they can overcome the submarine menace. Director Elmer Davis of the OWI disclosed that German subs in the Atlantic have sunk more Allied ships so far this month than for the same number of days in December.

As long as the shipping losses continue as heavy as they are at present, it is considered extremely difficult for the Allies to carry out large scale military operations abroad.

Don't let the Gremlins sabotage your battery!

BATTY BEN:
"I'LL pump out a little water-
YOU cut down the charge a bit,

This guy's only car'll QUIT!"
SNEAKY:
"Yeh-an' he won't know what's comin'
Till the bus don't START no more
He FORGETS war drivin's DIFFERENT
From the kind he's done before!"

Here's all it takes to keep your battery safe!

IT is your wartime duty to take special care of your battery. With driving curtailed, the automatic recharge can't do its usual job. More batteries are going to quit than ever before. But this need not happen to you. Here is a list of the things to do to help keep your car alive! . . .

1. At night, start engine with your lights off. At all times, hold clutch pedal down when you press starter.

2. Don't leave radio or unnecessary lights on when engine is stopped.

3. Have the water level inspected and battery tested regularly. If your battery is too far gone to take a recharge, replace it with a new Atlas battery while new ones are still available.

4. Be sure you have easy-flowing Esso winter lubricants in crankcase and transmission.

5. Have your Esso Dealer check the charging rate of your generator. Probably it can be stepped up for winter driving.

6. Keep battery terminals and connections clean and free of corrosion.

7. Clean, properly adjusted ignition points and spark plugs make a big difference.

8. Watch for weak-battery signals! If engine turns too slowly when you press starter . . . if lights go dim . . . your battery needs immediate attention.

IMPORTANT: A weak battery is not only a nuisance, but also wastes gasoline. To guard against inconvenience and also to stretch your gas rations, put the care of your battery into the hands of your Esso Dealer right now!

U. S. GOES ALL OUT IN SEARCH FOR SOUTH AMERICA RUBBER

The Amazon valley of South America holds the United Nations' chief hope of an expanded supply of natural rubber. To find out what is being done about tapping the Amazon's resources, Henry W. Bagley, chief of the Associated Press bureau in Rio De Janeiro, spent five weeks in the jungles.

By HENRY W. BAGLEY

MANAOS, Brazil, Jan. 21 (AP)—The United States and Brazil are swinging into a vast program to get every possible ounce of natural rubber out of the Amazon valley, America's best hope for a crude rubber supply.

Both countries are sinking huge sums int othe effort, for, although production of synthetic rubber in quantity is getting under way in the United States, crude rubber still is needed to mix with the synthetic and the reclaimed.

A big push must be given to the Amazon output, for in 1941 the whole basin—which includes parts of Bolivia, Peru, Colombia, Ecuador and Venezuela, as well as about half of Brazil—turned out only 19,000 tons. That's just a drop in the bucket.

AIMS AT HIGH GOAL

Joao Alberto Lins de Barros, Brazil's economic co-ordinator, is striving to reach a 50,000-ton figure this year. A pivot point in his campaign is the moving of some 50,000 workers from the wastelands of northeastern Brazil to the Amazon region.

Ceylon's natural plantation rubber still is available to the United Nations and the nearly 100,000 tons expected to be produced there would go a long way toward meeting wartime necessities. But Ceylon is far across submarine-prowled seas.

Liberia, the African Negro republic where Firestone has its big plantations, may produce as much as 10,000 tons annually.

Japan's conquest of Malaya and the Netherlands East Indies sent American technicians into the Amazon jungles. For it was from Brazil, 30 years earlier, that those same Far Eastern nations had taken the wild rubber trees which were the foundation of their own big plantations.

In Brazil's best rubber year, 1912, she produced only 42,000 tons, while output from Malaya and the Dutch East Indies combined has gone as high as 950,000 tons.

What it costs to get a pound of rubber from the Brazilian forests to an American manufacturer's plant, taking all factors into consideration, has not been disclosed, but all agree the figure is large.

Brazil has placed its domestic rubber industry on a wartime basis comparable to the rubber industry in the United States. Brazil agreed to limit her own consumption, to eliminate non-essential rubber products and to sell all of her "exportable surplus" of rubber goods to the United States.

GREATER BOSTON UNITED WAR FUND

One of the Great
Gift Values of All Times

Today, the red feather, traditional badge of courage, and symbol of the Greater Boston United War Fund, becomes the community's smartest fashion. And every citizen will wear it proudly as proof of his active support of this great community effort.

Few, if any, fashions have offered the values gained through giving to the fund. For the money given, we receive a finer community to live in, a greater America, a less chaotic and more humanitarian world. In short, we receive those values for which in these times we all bend every effort. No purchase was ever cheaper, no matter how large your gift, no matter how great your sacrifice.

The youth of our community, are now fighting, giving their lives, to retain for us these values. We at home must and will maintain the home fronts.

LOCKS BAR BRITONS IN RAID

'Scandalous Misuse' of Shelters Revealed

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP)—A number of Londoners were unable to get into air raid shelters at the height of yesterday's daylight raid because the shelters were kept locked to prevent "scandalous misuse," it was revealed in Commons today.

Sir William Henry Davison asked Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, if he were aware that "in yesterday's raids a considerable number of people who ran to the shelters were unable to get shelter by reason of the fact they were locked."

Said Morrison: "Shelters were kept locked owing to scandalous misuse and damage by citizens."

He aded that the health ministry was in a dilemma about locking shelters. The wardens, he said, had keys to those locked but it was a great problem to get shelters open when there was little time between sirens and bombs.

NAZIS SOUGHT PEACE IN 1940

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21 (AP)—Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia, has disclosed that in 1940 he was approached by Nazi spokesmen—at a conference suggested by "certain well-meaning citizens of our own country,"—with a proposed peace treaty, to be signed by German military or other government officials and under which Hitler would be "retired."

"I made it clear to these gentlemen that, in my opinion, it was an impossible peace," declared Davies in a town hall speech.

Davies said he attended the conference at the request of "certain important civic and business leaders in this country," whom he said "quite innocently, I am sure, were used by Hitler to further his plan to conquer the world and ourelves."

"On the face of it," Davis said, "their proposal seemer very fair. Upon digging into the specific terms, however, something else appeared. The condition which Germany required and the price we would have to pay was that it should keep the dominant place which it had achieved by conquest of Europe and be permitted to project its new order in Europe without interference."

'43 Food Goal Seen Periled

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Asserting there was "grave danger that 1943-44 food production goals would not be met, the Senate Defense Investigating Committee declared today that the Office of Civilian Supply had "Gambled dangerously and unwisely with our nation's food supply."

The report, made public by Chairman Truman (D.) of Missouri, said the OCS, a war production board agency, rejected recommendations for new farm machinery made by the Agriculture Department and substituted instead recommendations based "On a formula which was developed for it by a professor of agricultural engineering.

Joseph L. Weiner, director of WPB's Office of Civilian Supply, told the committee Wednesday that farmers were entering 1943 with "The greatest aggregate quantity of machinery in history." While new machinery had been limited to 23 per cent of 1940 production, he said, repair parts had been upped to 167 per cent of 1940 figures.

WPB Gives Us Back Our Wool Bathrobes

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—To help people keep warm, WPB has revoked a prohibition against the use of wool in bathrobes and other lounging wear.

Youth Can Serve

ALL BOSTON BOYS should read the good advice which the Chief of Personnel of the Navy gave to 13-year-old Oliver Brennan of Dorchester the other day.

Young Brennan had written to President Roosevelt, asking to be made a mascot in the United States Navy. In reply, he received this letter:

"My dear Oliver—Your patriotic request and desire to help is appreciated, but as the Navy has no mascots, we cannot use your services at this time.

"There are many things you can do. Keep yourself in shape so that when you are old enough to join the Navy, you can do a better job. Study hard at school; work on arithmetic; learn geography; try double hard at your exercises. Keep your teeth in shape, and if your eyes hurt, tell your doctor about it.

"These are the things we need most from the young men in this country who will be officers and enlisted men of the future, and who will be the coming generation of young men who take up the equally important task of completing the peace which will follow this war. Good luck to you."

It would be a very good idea to make this letter required reading in all boys' grammar schools.

DRAFT DELINQUENCIES are too numerous in Massachusetts, judging from the official records which disclose that no fewer than 1077 Selective Service registrants are listed as "missing."

Of course, it is possible that many of these unaccounted-for men may have enlisted in the armed services or gone into the merchant marine without notifying their draft boards.

Others may have left their home cities or towns without giving the mandatory notice to the proper authorities.

And others—a small minority, we think—may be deliberately trying to evade induction.

The penalty for delinquency of this type is severe—much too severe for any sensible young man to risk it.

The registrant who has any doubt concerning his status should write or visit his draft board without further delay.

MIDDLESEX COURT has ended the fiscal year of 1942 with a healthy balance of $305,155, according to Treasurer Charles P. Howard, who says:

"This balance is the largest in many years. It would be known in private business as a surplus.

The unobligated cash is the result of careful management by all departments of the county. It is especially interesting because Middlesex in 1942 had the lowest county tax in 14 years—that is, since 1928."

We don't have to garnish that record with verbal orchids; it speaks for itself.

Perhaps the commissioners and other officials of Middlesex County could be induced to write a book titled "How We Do It." Such a publication would be worth while, particularly in the spend and spend and tax and tax counties of this Commonwealth.

A RUBBER SUBSTITUTE, called "trolene," is reported by a resourceful Middletown, Ct., firm, which says the new material has been used successfully in retreads on a fleet of company cars for six months.

Several other manufacturers throughout the country are similarly announcing the discovery of synthetic rubbers. Some go so far as to state that their products are superior to the genuine article; will last longer, and will resist rapid temperature changes more effectively.

We find an abundance of satisfaction in this scientific progress. It is a hopeful indication that private enterprise can be relied upon to keep the wheels of transportation rolling in this country, despite the war and its setbacks.

SENATOR BRIDGES of New Hampshire wants the Congressional Medal of Honor bestowed posthumously on Gen. "Billy" Mitchell.

This action, says the Senator, would recognize the General's outstanding pioneer service and foresight in the field of American military aviation.

We agree with Mr. Bridges wholeheartedly. It is too late to right the wrongs that darkened "Billy" Mitchell's last days on earth. It is too late to bring back the dead soldiers and sailors whose lives might have been spared if "Billy" Mitchell's advice had been taken more seriously.

But it is not too late for the fairest nation on earth to admit its mistakes and publicly acknowledge them.

A CRITICAL SHORTAGE of nurses is disturbing the government at Washington.

Wherefore the United States Public Health service will conduct a national survey next week and then call on every nurse—married or single, active or retired—to serve on the fighting front, or to help keep manpower fit on the production lines and farms.

We are sure the splendidly loyal women of the nursing profession will respond in unexpectedly large numbers to their country's appeal.

My fear, my only regret
Is the thought of leaving you.
I'll brave the reign of death
That comes from a darkened sky
But I cannot brave the thought
Of whispering: "Good-bye."
If by chance I'm beckoned
To a heavenly land of blue
My soul may leave this earth
But my heart I'll leave with you.

—J. PETRONIO.

AUTHOR of this poem is about to join the armed forces of the United States. He will probably make a good soldier. The records reveal that the well-known poets who served with the Allied forces in World War I were all good soldiers. Of these Joyce Kilmer and Alan Seeger were outstanding examples . . . Jeanette MacDonald, long the favorite red-haired star of this department, is reported to have tried 27 suggested ways of curing insomnia with no good results. Her feelings are still the same as those of the late King Henry the Fourth when he said:

O Sleep, O Gentle Sleep,
Nature's soft nurse, how have
I frighted thee
That no more thou wilt weigh
my eyelids down
Nor sleep my senses in forgetfulness?

I WISH I could do something for Miss MacDonald because I want to see her all rested up when she makes her debut at the Metropolitan Opera. However, we have no insomnia cures in our files. I just know some cad is going to write in and say: "If Jeanette wants a good insomnia cure why doesn't she read your column every night?" I will try to ignore that, though I am a very sensitive fellow. Anyway, what is your favorite cure for insomnia? Did your grandma or your Aunt Sandra leave you one? I have asked all my uncles, cousins and aunts, but nobody in our family seems to have suffered from insomnia.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—Why is it you don't know Phar Lap, the pride of Australia, was a better horse than Exterminator? A—Nothing in the records indicates Phar Lap was greater than Exterminator or even so good. Phar Lap didn't beat much in winning the Agua Caliente Handicap and died before he had a chance to show what he could do against our best horses . . . Q—As for the sign, "For Officers Only," reported by a corporal to be on a night spot in North Carolina and to which he objected as not being "democratic," isn't it a fact that a "For Officers Only" sign is a military and not a class distinction? A—If a "For Officers Only" sign is put by order of the military authorities it is a military distinction which every intelligent enlisted man recognizes. However, when some night club owner takes it upon himself to put up a sign "For Officers Only" that is an entirely different matter.

ASIDES: "Hey, Mister, don't laugh at that fellow who bets $3 on every horse with a name beginning with Valdina," writes a Chicagoan. "I have been checking on him. He may be in possession of something there" . . . "As to that man who proposed 30 times before the girl accepted him," writes an East Vandergrift, Pa., subscriber, "he was really lucky. To date I have proposed to the same girl 61 times and I am still a bachelor" . . . When W. L. Shirer says anything about the Germans we are bound to give his views careful consideration. Mr. Shirer recently stated: "We must understand that the Nazi regime and Adolf Hitler come as close to representing the German people and all they stand for as any regime they ever had."

STATES A PHILADELPHIAN: "Persons or organizations employing feminine stenographers, switchboard operators, theater or restaurant cashiers or manicurists should have a compulsory exercise period during which the girls are given walking exercises. This would improve their appearance, especially when wearing slacks." How right the person was who said:

Girls who sit around a lot
Seem to grow in just one spot.

"NOT ONE WOMAN in a thousand knows how to make a bed properly. Most housewives do not even know what type of coverings to use on a bed to make it really comfortable for sleeping." So states a Chicago sheet salesman who has made an extensive study of bed making. He is writing a pamphlet "How to Make a Bed" and will turn it over to the Board of Education in the hope they will have feminine high school pupils study it and thus improve the sleeping comfort of Chicago husbands of the future.

SIDELIGHTS: Hitler is very proud of the shape of his hands. He claims the shape of the hand reveals a man's character. Der Fuehrer doesn't like the shape of Goering's hands and often says so. Hitler also thinks very well of his brain and has ordered that after his death it be dissected for the benefit of the world by the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute for Science . . . The recently announced United States war budget totalled $100,000,000,000. The assessed value of New York city is only about $7,500,000,000; to be exact it is $7,664,078,941. FINDS CANADA FEELS THE WAR MORE INTENSELY THAN U. S.

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

NEW YORK CITY, WEDNESDAY—I am most grateful to the people and officials of Canada for their kind welcome in Montreal. We had a rather busy day yesterday, but a very pleasant and most interesting one. A press conference had been arranged for me and then I paid a courtesy call on the mayor and attended a fairly large luncheon.

In the afternoon I was taken through one of the war plants which employs a considerable number of women. It is quite evident that the women of Canada are meeting their challenge in the same way the women are in the United States.

Since Canada is part of the British empire and many Canadian families travel back and forth to England and are closely tied to relatives in Great Britain, one feels the reality of the war more poignantly there than in the United States.

ONE OCCASIONALLY FEELS this tie even in the United States. For instance, I felt that I had stepped into a church club in Scotland the other night, when I went to a USO club called "The Thistle." Open to British sailors and merchant marine men, as well as to our own men in the services, I found that the women acting as hostesses were all Scotch, with good Scotch accents which had not worn off with their years in the United States.

That same thing might happen anywhere in Canada. I am sure they would sing "Auld Lang Syne" with as much feeling as they sang it for me in this little club in New York city the other night.

AFTER THE EVENING MEETING in the interest of Russian war relief, at which Mr. MacKenzie King and the people responded generously to the appeals made, we caught the train and arrived in New York city this morning. We shall proceed to Washington in the course of a few hours.

I have noticed lately a number of articles in the papers, and even some cartoons on the subject, as to whether we should lower the voting age, since we have lowered the draft age. This question has been academically discussed for some time, but now it becomes more than an academic question.

IF YOUNG MEN of 18 and 19 are old enough to be trained to fight their country's battles and to proceed from training to the battlefields, I think we must accept the fact that they are also old enough to know why we fight this war.

If that is so, then they are old enough to take part in the political life of their country and to be full citizens with voting powers.

Does Mayor LaGuardia plan a "bookie-of-the-month club" in his current anti-gambling drive? . . . Is Honey Chile Wilder back in town, or are you with me when I beg she isn't? . . . Has anyone learned the identity of Jimmy Cromwell's new and pretty arm link? . . . Is there any political significance to the numerous huddles between Leon Henderson and Donald Nelson? . . . THE MARCH of EVENTS

By BENJAMIN DECASSERES

I DO NOT LIKE TO TAKE issue with such an almost-always-right gentleman as our former Ambassador to Japan, Joseph C. Grew, but it seems to me he is unconsciously trying to turn us into half-minute eggs when he says this about the Japs after we have conquered Japan:

"We will find a people broken with the burdens of a desperate war, a people hungry, decimated, disillusioned, and the ears of the Japanese will then be open to the message of self-government and individual rights."

I do not believe we shall find such a Japan. That's what we were told about Germany after the first World War. The result was that our kindness, our pity, our mistake in differentiating a people from its rulers incubated Hitler. It's the old starvation, "baby's-milk" racket. If it is worked on us by Japan we will fight the war over again in the Pacific within 30 years. The "war-lords" of Japan are the incarnation of 90 per cent of the Japanese people, just as Hitler is the hope and dream of 95 per cent of the German people. You recall: "When the Devil was sick the Devil a Saint would be?" Don't soften up. Think of our dead. Think of our young men maimed for life.

HOW CAN WE PLOT and plan for settled economic and political bases for the future when this incontrovertible fact is staring us in the face: You and I—and all men and women—are contradictions in our very fiber and blood. We are paradoxes, personally and historically. We are all whim-wham, mood. We are changelings from hour to hour, from day to day aye, often from minute to minute. Let's plot and plan—and bomb—to preserve what we've got, to preserve us as we are. By us I mean United States Americans.

"HOWL YE, for the kingdom of Satan is at hand!" might have been the title of Philip Wylie's new book instead of "Generation of Vipers" (Farrar & Rinehart). The vipers are you and me and mother, comic strippers, newspapers, politicians, advertisers, radio, business, economics, "statesmen," professors, novelists, science, communists, socialists, Republicans, Democrats, Hollywood, prohibitionits, conventional christianity, congressmen (well, I'm out of breath, folks).

His style is a mosaic of Rabelais, Jeremiah, Billy Sunday, Brann, Harold Ickes, Victor Hugo, Dean Inge, Westbrook Pegler and H. L. Mencken. But I like this book immensely—in spots. It's a good bolus. We need some one every once in a while who will, without regard to Philistine "good taste" or stuff-shirted publishers, take down our hair, strip us of our hypocritical masks and whack us on the round house. We grow too smug and complacent from habit. We need more Wylies, with all his rigmarole and nonsense (and there's quite a little in this book) to jack us up out of our puddles of sentimentality into reality.

The theme of Wylie is that there is something rotten in the human soul. But to smear the rottenness under our noses to cure us is quite unusual. It doesn't generally work. Just one thing Mr. Wylie lacks, however. It is a sense of humor. He's vulgar but without laughter. The comic view of our hypocrisies is higher than the bellyaching view. Jeremiah is all right, but Rabelais, Moliere and Don Quixote will outlast him. What draws me to Mr. Wylie, however is his lashing of Reds and Prohibitionists—two of a kind. You'll either enjoy this book or heave it into the sewer.

RICHARD TREGASKIS, Boston Evening American and International News Service correspondent, has put down in the form of a diary one of the great historic epics of American history — the occupation of Guadalcanal ("Guadalcanal Diary — Random House"). Here is a man who writes history as it is made. The diary begins on July 26, 1942, and ends on Sept. 26. It was on Aug. 7 that Tregaskis climbed into the boats with the Marines and landed on Guadalcanal. He was neck-deep in this bloody business. A great, an heroic story by a courageous newspaper man. Guadalcanal is a new chapter in the history of the U. S. A. Don't miss this book.

THE ONE POST-WAR CHANGE we will have to make in our national and individual way of thinking is to do away with the word "pacifism." The desire to maintain peace is one thing and pacifism is another. Pacifism is a deliberate refusal to face these facts. That the world is governed by force; that no nation or people is, primarily, well-disposed to another; that the United States has friends—for-revenue-only; that we can hereafter maintain our safety only by a colossal navy, air force and universal military service.

Can we undergo that vital psychological change and still maintain our traditional concepts and impulses for individual liberty? That will be the supreme test of Washington's and Jefferson's republic.

WALTER WINCHELL will return soon from his tour of active Navy duty and will resume his column in TUESDAY'S DAILY RECORD.

HOLLYWOOD, Jan. 21—Twelve years ago Paul Muni was playing in "Counselor at Law" and Jack Warner went into his dressing room and persuaded him to come to Hollywood for "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang." You all know that this movie skyrocketed Muni to fame and was one of the most talked-of pictures of the year.

Now history may repeat itself. Muni is doing a revival of "Counselor at Law" and Jack paid him a visit in New York and carried with him a script of "Mr. Skeffington."

I understand the Epstein boys (Jules and Philip) have written a honey of an adaptation. Muni was so pleased with the script that he has agreed to give Jack an answer this week. The story should go into production Feb. 1, with Herman Shumlin directing.

LANA TURNER

Alexis Smith is having tests taken for the role of Mrs. Skeffington. In the movie version the story goes back to where Mrs. S. was a beauty and wore stunning gowns and was really the belle of her generation.

LANA TURNER is still in the hospital and, although she hasn't yet had visitors, I talked with her over the telephone. She is eager to return to the studio and start work on "Marriage Is a Private Affair," her next movie, but says she feels that it would be most unfair to the studio to start on an expensive production and not be well enough to finish it.

"Everyone out there, Mr. Mayer, Mr. Mannix and Mr. Thau, have been so kind I wouldn't want to be responsible for a financial loss," Lana said.

The studio apparently realized she is not well enough to make the picture and it has been postponed until after the birth of the baby early in June. Alice Faye took out a whole year, but Lana will return to work as soon as her baby is old enough.

WITH POLITICAL CONDITIONS in North Africa what they are and the French having so many different leaders, "The Life of General De Gaulle" would be extremely hazardous to bring to the screen at this time. Warners, who paid $50,000 to the Fighting French Movement Fund for the privilege of making De Gaulle's story —and plenty of money to William Faulkner for the screen play—are postponing it until conditions in North Africa are more settled.

* * *

IF FRANCES FARMER could look into my mail she would get well in a hurry. Not only have the motion picture folk, almost en masse, asked what they can do, but fans all over the country have written and spoken of her brilliant work as an actress and how much they hope she will take a rest and come back to us feeling well again. To print all the names would fill the column, but there are very few who haven't expressed their faith in Frances and their hope that she will soon recover.

I'M STICKING to my story that our next soldier-glamour girl wedding will unite Ann Sothern and Bob Sterling, for these two are in looove—and how! It's a young man's war—and seems like the young men are winning all our girls. While Bob has been in the service Ann hasn't stepped out with a single other beau, preferring to stay home, write letters to him and read scripts. Her next "Maisie" will be "Maisie Makes Hay."

* * *

A LINE OR TWO: Clark Gable is in town on a four-day furlough, but it isn't true that he is here to make a patriotic short with Uncle Sam's permission. Clark is now stationed on the West Coast, which makes his friends happy that they can see him when he gets "time off" . . . I can't remember talking to a happier or more excited girl than Luise Rainer when she telephoned to say my story was true. She gets the femme lead in "Hostages" opposite the Mexican star, Artura De Cordova.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Whispered here and there is the gossip that Jimmie Stack, brother of Bob, will wed Nell Hart, Bob Sterling's sister, when his divorce is final; Cesar Romero's new heartbeat is Fay Emerson, Warner movie actress; when Acquanetta and Edward Dmytrka dined at the Brown Derby someone cracked: "Their names together look like an eye test"; the friends of Jessie Matthews will be happy to hear she has completely recovered from her nervous breakdown and is in a show in London; Paul Small gets in town next week and is hoping for the right answer from Estelle Taylor; Randy Scott and Pat Stillman, an attractive dancing pair at the Mocambo; the Jimmie Ellisons expect their baby any second. That's all today. See you tomorrow.

COUNCIL TO BACK GOVERNOR ON KENISTON, PREDICTION

Judge Donovan are not above reproach," Bushnell said.

However, in his original letter to the governor on the matter of the Boston court appointments, he had declared that in his opinion Judge Zottoli possessed certain qualifications "which I believe are not present in the case of any other individual available at the present time."

Bushnell's rebuke by the governor came just as reliable authorities were admitting that last week's State Police raids on numbers pool operators were a "flop," owing to a series of amateurish bungles by the attorney-general's department.

Obviously upset at Bushnell's assertion that "criminal syndicates" will be "greatly pleased if once again Judge Zottoli is passed over for appointment as chief justice," Gov. Saltonstall said.

"The responsibility for appointments is mine and I intend to live up to that responsibility to the best of my ability."

"Mr. Bushnell," said Gov. Saltonstall in commenting on the matter, "came into my office to see me last week and recommended that Judge Zottoli be appointed chief justice of the municipal court. I believe that was the only time Mr. Bushnell has been in my office this year.

"I received a great many recommendations—at least 20—from lawyers, and even the Bar Association made a certain recommendation. The responsibility for the appointment of Judge Keniston is mine and I assume that responsibility, just as Mr. Bushnell assumes the responsibility of his office. I have never made any recommendations to him as to whom he would appoint as assistant attorneys-general.

"There has been no disgraceful situation in the Boston municipal court. Judge Putnam ran the court honorably. The record of Judge Keniston, both in public and private life, is above reproach.

STABBED IN THE BACK BY ARTHRITIS

NOW is the time of the year when Arthritis is on the loose, stabbing victim after victim with its deadly dagger of pain. If you are one of those unfortunate people, here is important information for you to know. Many people suffering from nagging arthritis pains in back, knees, shoulders and hundreds never suspect that these pains may be caused, in some cases by excessive acids within the body.

JUDGE JOSEPH E. DONOVAN
Council Okay Expected

Quick Okay for Donovan Seen

Confirmation of Gov. Saltonstall's appointment of Judge Joseph E. Donovan as an associate justice of Boston Municipal court is expected as a routine matter when the Executive Council meets next week.

Now 60 years of age, Judge Donovan has been a member of the bar for 38 years. He served in the old Boston city council and the state legislature.

Sen. David I. Walsh, when governor, appointed Judge Donovan to the bench in 1914. He served first as a special justice of Charlestown district court and in 1930 he was appointed by Gov. Allen as a special justice of Boston Municipal court.

Pilot Killed In Safety Test

JUNEAU, Alaska, Jan. 19 (AP) (Delayed)—A veteran Alaskan pilot's precautionary action to safeguard his plane load of passengers saved their lives here today after which he lost his own life in a trial flight to test a balky motor.

As the airman, Don Glass, taxied down the runway, one motor failed to respond, so he returned and discharged his passengers and the greater part of their baggage.

Taking off alone, he barely cleared the Douglas Bridge, and the plane struck the water, bouncing twice before sinking about three miles away from the take-off spot.

Perkins Deplores Hospital Situation

Lack of help in Massachusetts state hospitals has created such a menacing situation that "we are sitting on dynamite at all times," according to Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, state commissioner of mental health.

He urges that hospital operation be declared a war industry and employes frozen in their jobs. Many have quit, "pirated" for better paying non-military jobs. Dr. Perkins said there are but 4889 employes to care for the 30,000 patients in state institutions.

LANE STARTS TO REVAMP WOMEN'S DEFENSE CORPS

obtain new uniforms since the deposed leader designed those now in use: It was pointed out Miss Hammond probably holds a patent on the design and could collect royalties on every suit sold.

Should she seek to collect royalties, officials said, the corps' already tangled affairs would be further complicated since the state has no funds to pay royalties.

One reason for numerous resignations of corps members in the last few weeks, it was learned, was resentment caused by "overnight promotions."

FUTURE ASSURED

Defense officials who talked over the future of the corps with Gov. Saltonstall said there was no question but that it will be continued, with the possibility that its new commandant will be chosen from its present membership.

One favored candidate is Miss Susan Hammond of Nahant, not a relative of Col. Hammond, former drill master for the corps and now stationed at the WAAC officer candidate school, Fort Des Moines, Ia.

Considered an able executive, she served as an ambulance driver in France at the outbreak of the war. France awarded her the Croix de Guerre.

Maj. Lane voiced his appreciation of what corps members have done for the state, particularly during the Cocoanut Grove disaster, and said the change of leadership and impending reorganization should not cause members to swerve in their loyalty.

Six high ranking officers have already resigned, however, in addition to two who went out with Col. Hammond. Maj. Lane estimated that 10 percent, or approximately 500, might feel moved to drop out for one reason or another.

PLEA FOR NATALIE

One group of disgruntled corps women started a petition calling on Governor Saltonstall to reconsider Miss Hammond's case and return her to her post. It was understood more than 50 women signed the request.

Rumors about an independent women's defense corps being formed were circulated freely among Miss Hammond's supporters.

Advocates of such an organization pointed out Miss Hammond successfully started the Gloucester Civil Patrol and helped lay the foundations of the present MWDC.

There were reports of an organized "telephone campaign" to persuade scores more to resign, in a demonstration of affection and loyalty to Col. Hammond, but Maj. Lane said he was certain most members would respect their pledge to serve their State and country.

The corps' Beacon st. headquarters, once called "Castle Bridge," is now cold and barren of its lavish equipment. Moving vans took away furnishings valued in excess of $10,000, loaned by Col Hammond and her friends.

CANTEEN DRIVEN OFF

The articles were removed under the watchful eye of Miss Hammond's attorney. A corps officer checked off each article from a list in the office.

Articles removed included lamps, typewriters, army cots, maps, photographs, base kitchen equipment, emergency coffee vacuums valued at $500 and 289 first aid belts valued at $1400, office equipment valued at $930, mobile medical equipment valued at $1000, and the nozzles from 25 stirrup pumps.

A mobile motor canteen, valued at $2000, was driven away.

It was explained that some of these articles had been contributed by Miss Hammond out of her personal funds and that others had been donated by the Defense Corps, Inc., a group of wealthy women disbanded on Farley's order last summer, when the corps, as a state-paid agency, could no longer accept gifts.

CAN'T KEEP GRANDMA IN HER CHAIR

She's as Lively as a Youngster—Now her Backache is better

Many sufferers relve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help 20 people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

6 BAY STATE MEN WOUNDED, MISSING IN NEW NAVY LIST

Six Massachusetts men are included in the latest Navy Department casualty list which reports 14 men dead, 15 wounded and 43 missing. The Bay State residents are in the missing and wounded lists.

The Navy announced that, effective today, all casualties will be announced in a daily list instead of in periodical accumulations. Today's announcement brings to 21,453 the total Navy, Marine and Coast Guard casualties since Dec. 7, 1941.

W. Brinkerhoff Cambridge Missing

The Massachusetts men are:

Chief Electrician's Mate William J. Blessing, Navy, Chapman st., Wollaston, missing.

Wilburt E. Brinkerhoff, Jr., seaman, Navy, Putnam ave., Cambridge, missing.

Capt. Harry Connor, Marines, Richmond ave., Worcester, wounded.

Second Lieut. Walter H. Cuenin, Marines, Beach st., Malden, wounded.

Edward F. Dempsey, fireman, second class, Navy, Brookvale st., Lynn, missing.

Aviation Radioman Harold F. Stewart, Navy, Central st., Norwood, wounded.

Lieut. Cuenin, reported wounded, was graduated from Boston College in 1941 with honors and was a star in hockey and baseball. He prepared for B. C. at Malden High.

Capt. Harry Connor, also wounded, is a graduate of Worcester North High School, Worcester Academy and Dartmouth College, class of 1938. He was president of the Dartmouth Outing Club.

A graduate of Norwood High School, Stewart enlisted in the Navy in February, 1941. His parents received word he was injured in a plane crash in which three other members of the crew were killed.

Brinkerhoff was in his junior year at Rindge Technical School, when he obtained his parents' permission to enlist in the Navy shortly after Pearl Harbor.

RESERVE AIR CORPS CADETS WILL TRAIN IN COLLEGES

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—Prospective aviation cadets now in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve will be ordered to duty at about 100 colleges for special instructions under a new program expanding Army use of the Civil Aeronautics Administration's facilities.

A limited amount of flight training will be given, announcement by the Army Air forces said.

The college courses are expected to begin in April. Schools selected will include a number now participating in the CAA program.

The name Civilian Pilot Training, or "CPT," is being changed to CAA War Training service. It will have two parts. The first division will continue the present courses for men expected to qualify eventually as transport pilots or instructors.

"In the second division," said the air forces, "new special qualificaton courses will be conducted for a certain proportion of prospective aviation cadets prior to their entry into regular AAF schools.

"At the present time a large number of these men are in the Army Enlisted Reserve, awaiting call to active duty."

TOJO'S ILLNESS GIVES HINT CRISIS BREWING IN JAPAN

By GLENN BABB

The Japanese Parliament was to have convened today to hear Premier Tojo and his colleagues outline the government's policies.

But the Tokyo radio says Tojo has a cold and therefore the reopening has been postponed to next Wednesday. Now this is highly unusual.

The situation suggests strongly there is a crisis of some kind brewing.

Perhaps the recent announcement the government has drafted bills to give the premier new and unprecedented power holds the explanation.

Tojo holds his present position of great power, not as an individual, but as a member of the home front's ruling military caste.

MORE POWER FOR ARMY

His post is to more or less coordinate with those of Admiral Yamamoto, who commands in the war at sea; Gen. Terauchi, who commands the armies in the conquered southern areas, or Gen. Umezu, chief of the Kwantung army in Manchuoko. The big decisions are reached by still more senior generals and admirals who control imperial headquarters, the supreme war council and the general staffs.

What is sought now is more power for the Army's representative in the government to wipe out the possibility that any minister could hamper the Army's plans. Where such opposition might come from is not clear.

Chief emphasis obviously is on war production, an emphasis that becomes almost frenzied as the realization grips the militarists that Japan is tremendously overmatched in this phase and that American industry is producing miracles.

VICTORY VS. RUIN

Japanese capital and industry, still largely in the hands of men with some foreign experience and a world outlook far more realistic than that of the army's modern Samurai, has not gone along with the economic mobilization program with 100 per cent enthusiasm. This may be the source of the opposition that Tojo is trying to stamp out.

Many developments suggest a ruthless campaign against those who ran the economy of the empire in prewar times.

The picture thus vaguely outlined seems to mean that the army is determined to take totalitarian control of all productive capacity and run it in such a way that the result will be victory or utter ruin.

Big American bombers battered again by daylight yesterday at the harbor of Tripoli, last stronghold of Mussolini's one-time African empire.

BLAST AXIS SHIPS

Other Allied planes bombed Axis troops dug in along the coastal road between Horns and the capital.

The Axis air base at Castel Benito was bombed anew, and enemy troops and transport concentrations near Tripoli were under virtually incessant attack.

Torpedo-carrying Allied planes sank one ship and damaged two off the Tunisian coast, and sent another to the bottom in the Aegean sea.

From the west, Flying Fortresses and British Bisleys kept up their battering of military camps and supply routes behind enemy Tunisian line. American Billy Mitchell bombers, escorted by Lightning attacked an enemy tanker between Tunisia and Sicily and left it hard-hit.

The Italian communique, reporting 1500 prisoners captured on the Tunisian front in three days, said positions gained there were being consolidated.

The German communique, however, said the positions were held against strong enemy counter attacks, but reported them "improved considerably in some places."

Yanks Pound Japs in Burma Rail Bases

NEW DELHI, Jan. 21 (AP)—United States heavy bombers made a punishing attack Tuesday on railway installations at Thazi, a rail junction in Central Burma 80 miles south of Mandalay, an American Army communique announced today.

This was part of a series of daily assaults in which the American and British air forces based in India are pounding Japanese bases throughout Burma.

The communique described Thazi as a point of rail communication between Rangoon and Mandalay and reported many hits on the railway junction and among storage sheds.

RAF bombers, continuing their round-the-clock assaults on Japanese bases in central and western Burma, blasted the airdrome at Toungoo last night and again attacked oft-bombed Akyab island.

SMART SET

Busy With Garden Plans

By BETTY ALDEN

A POPULAR FIRESIDE PASTIME these cold wintery nights is the planning of victory gardens for the summertime.

Everyone who has a backyard, no matter how tiny, is figuring on growing his own vitamins for victory and having the Mrs. can them to piece out the ration quota.

So if you're one of these amateur gardeners wondering whether to plant parsnips or turnips or what kind of a rake or hoe you need, get in touch with a member of the Defense and Conservation committee of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts.

Members of this group are women who work with Prof. Cole at Amherst and Gov. Saltonstall's "Home Grown Vegetable" committee to provide the latest dope on victory gardening. Another of their projects is sending fresh flowers to brighten recreation rooms and hospitals at Army camps.

Mrs. John C. Jones, Jr., Mrs. Kenneth Bacon Bond, Mrs. Ralph G. Swain, Mrs. Sherman Whipple, Jr., Mrs. Henry Richardson, Mrs. John F. Brown, Mrs. John Briggs Potter and others will attend tomorrow's meeting of defense and conservation chairmen, at 11 a. m. at Horticultural Hall.

SPEAKING OF Mrs. John Briggs Potter, bet you didn't know her niece, Faith Thoron, was married to Robert Knapp at Leslie Lindsey last Saturday. Faith is the daughter of Mrs. Ward Thoron who shuns publicity to such an extreme that, till this notice, neither Faith's engagement nor wedding ever reached the social columns. Faith is a member of the Vincent Club.

MOTHERS OF YANKEE SONS in Africa will get a kick out of Miss Eunice Avery's talk on "Our Africa:. Campaign" tomorrow at the Copley Plaza. This is one of the regular Friday series to benefit the Children's Hospital. Speaking of Africa, our boys "over there" will receive thousands of smokes as a result of the "cigarette luncheon" at the Copley Plaza Saturday noon. Debs will usher and collect from each guest a contribution of cigarettes to be sent overseas.

DEBUTANTE SALLY ARNOLD will usher at the Symphony luncheon tomorrow at the Copley Plaza's Oval Room. Guests will hear a piano-talk on the current Boston Symphony program.

Trinity Grads Plan Party

To make final plans for their theater night on Feb. 3, the Trinity College Alumnae of Boston will have a meeting at League House, 1 Arlington st., Saturday at 1 o'clock.

The alumnae will take over the performance of "This Rock," a new comedy-drama by Walter Livingstone Faust, produced by Eddie Dowling, on the evening of Wednesday, Feb. 3.

Among sponsors for the affair are Mrs. Frederic J. O'Hara, Mrs. Thomas J. O'Connor, Mrs. William J. O'Brien, Mrs. John J. Quigley, Mrs. Harold J. Ring, Mrs. Walter J. Rose, Mrs. Thomas L. Ryan, Mrs. William R. Thompson, Mrs. Mary McManus O'Neil, Mrs. William A. Brady, Mrs. John F. McManus, Mrs. Frederic J. O'Brien, Mrs. John J. Ryan, Mrs. Paul McDonald, Margaret Porter.

WAR GARDEN GOAL UPPED

WASHINGTON, Jan. 21 (AP)—With a goal far surpassing that of World War I, a new army of soldiers of the soil is mobilizing to tend the victory gardens of this war and so supplement the nation's food supply.

In 1917-1918, some 5,285,000 war gardens yielded an estimated 528,-285,000 pounds of vegetables.

For 1943, the Agriculture Dept. has set a goal of at least 18,000,-000 victory gardens, with 12,000,-000 on city, town and suburban plots, and 6,000,000 on farms.

Discounting reports of a seed shortage, Secretary Wickard urged every town, city and suburban family with a sufficient plot of open, sunny and fertile ground to plant a victory garden. He recommended that special attention be given to green and leafy vegetables, yellow vegetables and tomatoes.

Wickard also urged farm families to produce and preserve as much as possible of their entire year's food needs, particularly of vegetables, fruits and meats.

Department seed reports show that the production of vegetable seeds in 1942 was 26 per cent greater than in 1941. Increases were largest in the cases of kohlrabi, Chinese cabbage, broccoli, Swiss chard, garden beets, cauliflower, celery, carrots, and pole lima beans. Largest decreases were shown for okra, eggplant, and lettuce.

George C. Edhler, department seed authority, said that reduced supplies also appeared in onions, beets, carrots, cabbage, and some field crops.

Today's Last Day For A-3 Coupons

Today is the last day for use of A-3 gasoline ration coupons. Coupons marked A-4 will be required for purchase of gasoline effective tomorrow, OPA said in a notice to A book holders.

Many B and C gas ration books also expire today, but renewal of the supplemental books can be obtained only by application at local ration boards.

STUART BROWN DIES

MIAMI, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—Stuart Harrison Brown, 68, retired executive of the Union Bag & Paper Corp., New York city, died unexpectedly after a heart attack. Survivors include a sister, Mrs. Fred H. Daniels, Newtonville, Mass.

YOU'LL BE HEARING a lot this season about small muffin-shaped hats that are to be worn at every conceivable angle . . . in plain felt with a gold pin for country tweeds . . . in flowers for spring suits . . . and they're for every possible hair-do, varying the angle with the coiffure. Madame Pauline has done something on that idea in this very sleek and sophisticated little beret which harks back to Victorian days with its complete border of clipped worsted ball fringe. This, she decrees, is to be worn very straight on the head.—ANNICE BRINK.

CLOTHES BUYING HARDER, SO TRY YOUR NATURAL SKILL

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE way the sources of our new styles are being dried up into the most conservative of molds is going to lower the standard of your appearance if you don't try harder than ever.

When you can't follow the easy way of going in and getting a new dress when you need a lift, you will have to get there by the hard way. You'll have to invent and devise ways of making your appearance ever fresh and charming. Or you'll slump and lose the appeal you always prided yourself on having.

It seems to me that American tradition is against any such hopeless slump. It wasn't so long ago that mothers and daughters made their clothes at home, were experts at make-over, and never threw out a garment until it had been cut down and completely exhausted by the youngest member of the family.

I believe that the girls and women today have just as much gumption and are just as well endowed with the Eve-old sense of personal decoration, and if you buckle down and try I'm sure everybody will be pleased and proud of the results.

HOT SOUPS
Needed These Days

By MARTHA LEE

JANUARY IS A SOMEWHAT dreary month. This is the season when hot foods of every kind achieve their greatest importance—hot cereals at breakfast time and above all, hot soups at luncheon and dinner.

Luncheon soups are probably the most important of all, for they frequently are the only hot dish of the meal and so should be carefully chosen for their nutritive values. Cream soups are particularly good, and so are soups using potatoes as the thickening agent .The French chef's secret of "finishing" a cream soup with a last-minute addition of an egg yolk beaten up in a half a coup of light cream is a good trick to remember—adds nourishment as well as that certain something.

SEASONING WITH SUGAR

French chefs season with sugar, too, as well as with salt. Sugar brings out flavor in just exactly the same way as salt does, but in a much more subtle fashion.

Since some of us in America have only lately become aware of the importance of beet sugar to our national economy, it is particularly interesting to note at this time that the sugar used by all these famous chefs in the creation of their greatest masterpieces was and still is sugar derived from the sugar beet.

BEET SUGAR

Sugar beets have been for many years the chief source of sugar for Europe and now that shipments of tropical grown cane sugar to this country have been seriously curtailed, our own United States beet sugar industry is achieving the importance it deserves.

With this dependable annual supply of home grown beet sugar to draw upon, our ration isn't nearly so limited as it might have been—and most of us have sufficient sugar for an occasional favorite cake or cookie recipe as well as the subtler and possibly more important uses of sugar as an ingredient in salad dressings, vegetables and fruit cooking, and soups.

Here are two excellent soups. Both are nourishing and delicious, and both are extremely convenient in the matter of using up leftovers, for the pumpkin may be cooked at the same time you are making pumpkin pie and reserved to use in this completely different guise one or two days later.

CREAM OF PUMPKIN SOUP

1 cup mashed cooked pumpkin
3 cups milk
1 tbsp. grated onion
2 tbsp. chopped parsley
1½ tsp. salt
1½ tsp. sugar
½ tsp. Worcestershire sauce
Dash of black pepper
2 egg yolks
½ cup light cream

Heat together all ingredients except egg yolks and cream. Bring to a boil. Mix egg yolks and cream thoroughly. Add to the hot soup, stirring until it is slightly thickened. Serve immediately. Makes 4 servings.

WHITE TURNIP SOUP

2 cups diced white turnip
1 cup diced raw potato
2 cups stock, or 2 cups water and 2 cups bouillon cubes
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. beet sugar
1 cup top milk
Chopped parsley

Add stock to diced turnip and potato. Add salt and sugar. Simmer for 30 minutes or until turnip and potato are quite soft. Pour into a fine sieve, pressing turnip and potato through the sieve. Add milk, reheat and serve garnished with chopped parsley. More milk may be added if a thicker soup is desired. Makes 4 generous servings.

Birthday Horoscope

THESE CHAMOIS-COVERED CURLERS WON'T COST YOU BEAUTY SLEEP

By ARLINE GOULD

EVER SINCE MOTHER put your hair up in rag curls . . . and even after permanents entered your life . . . curlers have been an uncomfortable factor. Vanity being what it is, lots of girls go through one head-achey day a week or so, after sleeping on what amounts to a picket fence, with bulky curlers winding up straggly ends. It took a very cute little showgirl, who valued comfortable sleep, to invent a chamois-covered curler, neat and unobtrusive and practically incapable of disturbing your rest.

They're being sold all over the country, and it seems the demand more than keeps up with the supply, especially as this is a sort of "home industry" carried on wherever the inventive showgirl moves, which may be anywhere from Montreal to Miami Beach!

As you know, many a smart little housewife has invented amazingly simple and effective time and labor saving gadgets. And so with this chamois covered curler, which is based on a coil spring wire, most ingeniously fastened with one quick movement, as effortlessly as possible . . . and without a single knob, protuberance or wire either to show or snag your hair! They're six for 89 cents, practically never wear out, and may be kept fresh with any cleansing fluid.

FASTER AND SIMPLER

As you can see by the peacefully snoozing model, the curlers are perfectly flat against the head and are the right size to make curls as tight as you wish.

There's really much to be said for the old-fashioned curler method for home hair-doers, as against their attempts to make ringlet curls. This curler business is much faster and simpler, needs no special facility of the fingers, and will go on and on when the metal shortage does away with the small hairpins used in setting hair.

Phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, for all further details on these clever chamois-covered hair curlers, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HIGH SCHOOL SPANISH PAYS DIVIDENDS TO OVERSEAS YANK

Spanish classes, a wearisome task in high school days, are paying off big dividends these days to American soldiers in North Africa.

Pfc. William T. Scanlan of East Seventh st., South Boston, in a letter to his sister, Mrs. George Moore of Elliot ave., Quincy describes "a good will tour all my own." His letter follows:

Dear Ruth and George:

It seems like years since I wrote you last. I hope that you are both well.

I'm O. K. and trying my best to say Merry Christmas and joyous New Year in time. If it's a little late—blame the war.

PFC WILLIAM T. SCANLAN
On African 'Good Will Tour'

I'm in the pink and patiently waiting for this war to cease—permanently.

I met a couple here and I get along well with them. Imagine me chewing the fat in a private home thousands of miles from home—and in a foreign tongue. All that was taught me in Spanish comes back as I talk to these people. My lingo is getting better all the time.

My friends killed a chicken on one of my visits and we had a fine chicken dinner with all the fixings. It sure was a great treat.

In England I met Major Cox and his wife.

I seem to be on a good-will tour all my own, touring the world with the Army.

Burn the lights bright for Christmas. I'd like to see your house this year—that is, if the dimout is not in effect. Say a few prayers for the new year—let's hope it will be more peaceful.

So long for now, don't worry about me.

Love

One Plastic Helicopter In Every Garage, His Aim

BALTIMORE, Jan. 20 (AP)—Can you imagine backing your plastic helicopter out of the garage some Sunday morning, taking your family for a spin above the countryside, and then, on your way home, stopping at a "roadside" stand to eat hot dogs?

It sounds like a pipedream, especially now, when the old family jalopy stays in the garage most of the time.

However, William Z. Safka, design engineer on plastics of the Glenn L. Martin Aircraft Co. and instructor at the Plastics Industries' Technical Institute, predicts that "someday a plastic" helicopter will be in every garage."

After the war, of course.

Here's his idea of the "family plane" of the post-war era:

This "airmoblie" will be far lighter than present-day passenger planes, but will have a tensile strength greater than steel.

You will be able to order your helicopter in any color and shade your wife selects, and it will be fade, rust and dent-proof.

It will cost about $1200 and fly for six miles on a gallon of gasoline.

It will be more maneuverable than present-day automobiles.

It will contain safety devices, making it practically foolproof.

The size of an automobile, the helicopter will be able to park in any space an automobile can back into.

If Safka's prediction comes true, the old melody "Come, Josephine, in My Flying Machine" may become the theme song of the post-war generation.

JVA GROUPS BUSY UNITS

With their ranks including Junior Victory Army members, Cambridge Boy Scouts have participated in 12 of the 30 "good turns" expected of this organization under the national Scout program geared to meet war emergencies.

The Cambridge Scouts represent one of the organizations which will benefit from the Greater Boston War Fund.

The services they have done include: War Stamp savings and pledge campaigns; scrap collections; duties as assistants to civilian defense authorities.

Older Scouts are members of the Emergency Service Corps, which J. W. Clements, executive of the Cambridge Council with headquarters in Bolyston st., says has had exceptional training and is ready for immediate action.

Some of its preliminary courses are: First aid, physical fitness (running, rope climbing, wall scaling and other tests of strength), communications, public health, camping and ability to serve the homeless with hot food in time of disaster.

Sea scouting, a major activity of the Cambridge Scouts, has won the commendation of Navy Secretary Frank Knox.

To join the Junior Victory Army simply send your name and full address to JVA, P. O. Box 228, Boston. If, in addition, you want the red, white and blue JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a 10 cent coin (well-wrapped) with your enrollment.

Business Man 30 'Rock' Author

Walter Livingston Faust, author of "This Rock," the new comedy starring Billie Burke which opens a two-week engagement Monday, Feb. 1, at the Plymouth Theater, is a well-known business man. He is vice-president of Socony-Vacuum Co. in New York City and, in addition to writing plays, is also the author of several novels.

Eddie Dowling

Eddie Dowling saw "This Rock" presented earlier in the year at the Summit, N. J., Playhouse, an amateur group in Mr. Faust's home town. He was so impressed by it that he immediately optioned the script. Miss Burke's supporting company is headed by Nicholas B. Joy, Jane Sterling and Zachary Scott.

The Wednesday evening (Feb. 3) performance of "This Rock" will be for the benefit of Trinity College Alumnae.

Hampton Band On Boston Bill

Lionel Hampton today brings his topflight orchestra to the RKO Boston stage, where this week they and those slick tapsters, the Nicholas Bros., will share the starring honors.

With this outstanding stage show and "Quiet Please, Murder," starring that fine actor, George Sanders, with Gail Patrick, on the screen, it would seem that the RKO Boston is caught with what is inelegantly known as a click-eroo show.

Hampton is, of course, an artist on the vibraharp and the drums and his musical aggregation's excellent delivery and fine orchestrations are a byword in the band world.

Feaured member is Rubel Blakely, whose vocal contributions are well worth your listening. Glenn and Jenkins, Billie Holiday and Otto Eason are other acts. The first-mentioned team needs no introduction to local audiences, who have always been partial to their type of comedy. Billie Holiday is a vocalist and Eason, a roller-skating champion.

You may remember the Nicholas Bros. as the dance stars of the films, "Sun Valley Serenade" and "Orchestra Wives."

"Quiet Please, Murder" has Lynne Roberts and Richard Denning for its co-stars. It is concerned with a sudden, ruthless murder in the quiet of a public library, the death of a library guard and the disappearance of a priceless Shakespeare folio.

LIONEL HAMPTON and his fine colored musical group today begin a week's engagement at the RKO Boston.

TONIGHT'S OPENING

A Sunday night performance of the new Milton Berle-Ilona Massey-Arthur Treacher starring "Ziegfeld Follies," opening tonight at the Shubert, is to be given because of the unprecedented demand for tickets. Seats for this extra performance are now on sale at the box office. Only tickets purchased for opening-night performance will be recognized tonight. Thursday night tickets may be exchanged for tickets for future performances.

HORROR BILL AT BEACON

Spy Thriller At Trans-Lux

"Madame Spy," adventure drama of modern espionage now at the Trans-Lux, brings Constance Bennett to the screen in a role admirably adapted to her beauty and dramatic abilities.

It is almost a dual role. She is an undercover federal agent and at the same time the bride of a famous newspaper man. She is, however, compelled to keep from him the fact that she is engaged in counter-espionage.

Out of her dilemma come the complications of the story, and they lead the lovely spy and her husband into a series of adventures that maintain increasing suspense and excitement.

Opposite Miss Bennett as the newspaper man is Don Porter. Supporting players, all of whom are excellently cast, include such veteran performers as John Litel, Edward S. Brophy, John Eldredge and Nana Bryant.

Roy William Neill has done a sympathetic job of directing "Madame Spy" from the unusual screen play written by Lynn Riggs and Clarence Upson Young.

One of radio's most popular character performers brings his original ether characterization to the screen in "The Crime Smasher," exciting underworld picture also on view at th Trans-Lux.

Frank Graham is the radio artist who has enacted the role of Cosmo Jones, the eccentric detective, for three years on the air. In his first film appearance he is featured with Richard Cromwell, Gale Storm and Edgar Kennedy.

Let Them Serve

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Copyright, 1943, King Features, Synd., Inc. World Rights Reserved

THE HOLIDAYS are past. But, chances are, there's a wreath in your window, even though the dimout curtain hides it from the street.

But have you thought of the thousands who have no wreaths, no candles, no hope—who sit in a dim-out through the dreary days? Yes, I'm talking about convicts. They do not ask freedom for mad dogs. They do not ask freedom even for themselves. They only ask to serve.

Have you no debt you long to repay? If you have—and who hasn't—remember it as you read this letter, which I print verbatim, just as it came to me:

Cook County Jail,
Chico, Ill.

Dear Miss Robinson:

We are writing to you in behalf of the boys in Cook County Jail. We have been discussing the shortage of manpower in this war and of what we could do for our country if we had a chance. We are not making excuses for what we have done in the past. But believe us, the terms we are serving seem little beside the fact that the other fellows are helping their country and we are checked off the list.

Our average age is about 25. Most of us are able-bodied men and more than willing to fight for our country. In some pens they are already inducting first offenders—we only wish we could have the same chance to fight, even if it meant to die. It is a greater shame than you can know for men of our caliber to read of the nation's man shortage and feel the public pointing guiltily at us.

However, we do not ask to go free. We do not ask to be pardoned. All we ask is a chance to prove to the country that, even if we have broken the law, there is still a heart in us that beats with love for our nation. Give us a chance to do something to make this land safe for the coming generation, even if we are junked.

There are a great many of us who wish to donate our healthy blood to soldiers and we are also willing to let the government experiment in any way with our bodies that may be beneficial to our country. Our bodies are all we have to give but we are not bluffing.

We have also sent this offer to U. S. Sen. C. Weyland Brooks and we are asking you to request the readers of the paper to cast a vote whether they are willing to give us some part of the present war service.

We have read how English and Canadian penitentiaries have released many prisoners to risk their lives for their countries. Can't this be done in America, where so many good boys of good families have made mistakes and would gladly give their lives to undo them? Yours respectfully,

E-I.

Signed—

THERE'S the letter. There's the offer. You are free. You can serve your country as you wish. Does it lie in your heart to plead that these men be given a chance to serve it, too? If so, write to your nearest paper and say so.

As for me, I stand behind the bars with every man who honestly regrets, as I regret, the mistakes that have been made. And if I could I'd go bond for everyone who'd really try to win his honor back.

One Man's Opinion

By WALTER KIERNAN
International News Staff Writer

We are fighting two wars in Africa and the political war is getting in the way of the physical war.

Our boys are trained as fighters, but they are inexperienced in making a match between two kinds of French.

Every Frenchman we recognize as a brave ally is immediately belaborrd by other Frenchmen as little better than a Nazi.

While our forces remain stalled it doesn't seem to be the time to fight the political battles of the French.

It wouldn't be a bad idea to serve notice on both factions that unless they team up pretty soon we will just go on about our business and let them cut each other's throats.

No outsider ever won a family fight yet, and we've spent too much time on this one.

Thought for the day: Put up or shut up.

R. I. FUEL PLAN IN EFFECT

PROVIDENCE, Jan. 21—All non-essential plants burning fuel oil, and all business, offices and retail establishments not connected with the war effort are placed on a five-day week, beginning today.

This order was issued by Gov. J. Howard McGrath under his emergency powers as a means of conserving fuel. The order makes Saturday a holiday except for retail stores, which will be closed Mondays.

Under terms of the Governor's directive, Rhode Island becomes a dry state every Monday of the heating season so far as the general sale of liquor is concerned.

Bartolo Bids for World's Ring Title

SALVATORE BARTOLO of East Boston may be the first graduate of the All-America amateur boxing tournaments to win a world's professional championship. He is already New England featherweight king, and if he can conquer Carmen Fatta at a Goodwin A. C. show at the Arena tomorrow night he has an excellent chance to go on and win the highest honors in his boxing division.

Bartolo has been boxing as a professional for four years and he has done everything that has been asked of him in the ring. The East Boston featherweight is a finished boxer. He knows every trick in the fistic game and rates with the best mitt wielders of the country.

Fast, clever, resourceful, intelligent on the attack and, when forced back on the defense, a fiery puncher, especially when hit by an opponent, Bartolo is every inch a fighting man. He comes from the fistic pattern from which champions are produced.

I talked with Bartolo recently as he watched a bout from the press row at the Arena.

"I believe I am the best featherweight in the world," said Bartolo. "I have devoted years of study to perfect my boxing and hitting. I now feel I am ready to make my bid for a world's championship. If I win from Carmen Fatta, I shall try to get a match with Willie Pep. The latter is recognized as world's featherweight champion in New York, and is today the best drawing card in the featherweight division.

"I would prefer meeting Pep in Boston as I think such a match would sell out the Garden, and help give boxing a lift in this city."

Featherweight matches have always attracted large crowds in Boston when classy boxers were in action. Dick Finnegan and Chick Suggs drew $36,000 in the Arena with the former winning the decision. Finnegan drew $40,000 as he opened the Boston Garden with

Jake Zeramby of Lynn later also won from Routis at the Garden at a show that drew $20,000.

Bartolo and Pep would draw at least $20,000 and might do better. Pep hails from Hartford, and many of his Connecticut followers would come to this city if he were to meet Pep.

Golden Glove and All-America Champion

IT WAS AS A Golden Glove and All-America champion that Bartolo first attracted attention. As an amateur, he had boxing speed, flash and a love for tossing blows. When Bartolo is nailed by one of his opponent's best punches, he does his best punching. He fires away with both hands, and does not yield an inch.

Bartolo is a dapper dresser. Like other professional athletes who have gone places, Bartolo has acquired poise. He speaks well on current events, on which he is well informed. Outside of the ring he is a quiet, unassuming young man. He could easily pass as a college student.

In the ring, Bartolo is the polished ring gem and as explosive as a shell dropped from a bomber when he goes to town behind blazing punches.

Bartolo is typical of hundreds of youngsters who have competed in the All-America tournaments. He loves boxing and is determined to reach the fistic heights.

George Martin, Willard Buckless, Jimmy Sauer, Jerry Zullo, Johnny Pretzie and other young boxers who have distinguished themselves in the All-America shows have a personal interest in Bartolo's bout tomorrow night. They feel he is carrying their banner as well as his own and they are eager to see him scale the heights. Each of these other youngsters promises to follow Bartolo up the hard road that leads to a world's boxing championship.

CERRONE SOX FUGITIVE

By HERB FINNEGAN

It's fun to be a big leaguer in the good old summertime but did you ever stop to think of all the broken hearts, all the broken arms strewn along the rocky road to big league fame?

Talk with boys like Pete Cerrone, Al Festa, Frank and George Cattarius, Tommy Musil and Frankie Scanlon, Greater Boston semi-pro grads who served short sentences with the Red Sox chain gang.

Pete Cerrone is 31 now, still pitching no-hit ball in the Park League and selling clothes in a Boston department store.

This "iron man" southpaw was picking up $70 a week in semi-pro ranks back in '34, pitching one-hitters and two-hitters, when he was called to the attention of the Red Sox. Lefty Grove saw him work out at Fenway Park and persuaded the Sox to sign him. Lefty knew a good southpaw when he saw one.

DIDN'T KNOW THE ANGLES

So the following spring Pete signed a contract to pitch for the Red Sox farm club at Charlotte for the munificent sum of $150 a month. That was considerably less than he was picking up around Greater Boston, especially since he had his department store job on the side, but he was anxious to become a big leaguer and was willing to make the sacrifice even though he was a recent benedict. He'd get along somehow on the $150. Perhaps in '36 he'd get a good salary boost.

Pete, of course, didn't know the angles to chain store baseball. He learned quickly, however, to his sorrow. He was signed to a Charlotte (Piedmont League Class B) contract but was told that Charlotte had its allotment of players and that he would be tried out with a Sox Class D farm club at Danville, Va.

There were some 300 youngsters in that Red Sox camp at Danville, and Pete felt pretty good when he was one of the 14 retained. "Why they released George Cattarius and Musil I never could figure," says Cerrone in retrospect. "Cattarius was hitting well above .300, playing errorless ball in the outfield, and Musil was faster than Bob Feller ever was. I mean it! Just had too many ball players around, I guess."

AL FESTA
'Chain Gang' Victim

PUT UP A "BEEF"

Anyway Pete spent a month in training for which a player receives no pay. He was quite taken back and no whit nettled when he finally did get paid and found he had been cut to $75 a month on his shift to Danville without ever having a chance to pitch for Charlotte.

"I went to Herb Brett, the manager, and put up a beef," said Cerrone. "I said the baseball in that Class D League was too slow for me, and asked him if I won my game that day if he'd send me along to Charlotte so I could get my $150 a month. He said he'd see what he could do.

"So I bore down, had a one-hitter going into the eighth when I was taken out for a pinch hitter. We won the game 2-1, and I thought I had done all right.

"I was pleased when he called me into his office and told me I was being traded, but he almost floored me when he said I was going to Bassett, another club in that same Class D Bi-State League. That was enough for me. I packed up and thumbed my way home. If that's organized ball, they can have it. How's a fellow going to get along on $75 a month, especially when he's married?"

FESTA ANOTHER FUGITIVE

So Pete came home, got his job back in the department store and proceeded to pick up his $70 a week pitching twilight and weekend ball. Late in the season a Detroit scout saw him pitch in Weymouth, and told him to report to Manager Mickey Cochrane in Boston the next day. Cy Perkins, Mickey's lieutenant, warmed him up, and Cochrane wanted to sign him on the spot. "Get your release from the Red Sox," said Cochrane, "and see me here tomorrow."

Cerrone traipsed to the Red Sox front office. He didn't get his release, just a calldown for jumping the Danville club. So to this day Pete is pitching one-hitters and no-hitters for Park League teams, a cast-off from organized baseball because he wouldn't play for $75 a month in a league that was far slower than Billy Mullen's Park League.

Al Festa is another "fugitive from the Red Sox chain gang," but we'll save him for another day.

Their experiences explain in part why more Greater Boston boys are not playing with Boston clubs; why Ralph Wheeler sends the Lenny Merullos, the Barney Olsens, the Eddie Waitkuses to the Cubs. They pay.

Majors Save 5 Million Miles

Baseball has completed a revised schedule under which (1) the American and National Leagues will save approximately 68,000-team miles travelling, (2) the Memorial Day and July 4 double-headers for the first time will feature intersectional games and (3) the 1943 All-Star game will be played at Shibe Park, Philadelphia, with the Athletics as host.

The most important feature of the new schedules was the estimated easing of the already overburdened transportation problem.

It was estimated the A. L. could save 35,328 team miles and Nationals figured to save 34,000. Since both used 30 men squads as a base this amounted to a total travel deduction of 2,179,840 man miles!

A'S, NATS OPEN APRIL 20

This total, added to the mileage saved by the switch of spring training schedules to the northern states, pushes the approximate over-all mileage saved by major league baseball to some 5,000,000 miles.

All teams with the exception of the Philadelphia Athletics and Washington Senators, who will open April 20 in Washington, will begin the '43 year on April 21. The opening day schedules follow:

American League: Chicago at St. Louis; Detroit at Cleveland; Boston at Philadelphia; Washington at New York. National League: New York at Brooklyn; Philadelphia at Boston; St. Louis at Cincinnati, and Pittsburgh at Chicago.

In the past, Memorial Day and July 4 always found eastern teams playing eastern rivals and west facing the west. This year both holidays fall on Sunday and will be celebrated the following day. Schedules under the new set-up are:

REDS HERE ON FOURTH

On July 5 in the American League: Boston at Chicago, New York at St. Louis, Washington at Detroit, and Philadelphia at Cleveland. In the National: Cincinnati at Boston, Chicago at Brooklyn, Pittsburgh at New York, and St. Louis at Philadelphia.

The schedules will be presented in proof form to the various club owners, who will mark off the dates on which they wish to play their night games and possibly extra double-headers. They can schedule the latter any time during the season under the new set-up.

The revised proof will then go back to the league heads for final ratification.

Baseball Safe, Klem Asserts

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—Bill Klem, boss National League umpire who has been calling 'em from behind the plate for 40 years, took a look into the future today and predicted:

"There'll always be baseball. You can't keep down a sport that is bred into the heart and soul of America. What's a few wartime restrictions to a grand old game like that?"

Thus Klem, at his Miami Beach residence, responded to news that the major teams must train close to their home grounds, and that the days of sun-washed spring camps were over for the duration.

"So what?" asked the old arbiter. "I remember when all the teams trained at home. They waited around the clubhouse for the snow to melt, and dashed out to get in a few licks before it started to rain. Then, on sunny days, they worked like the devil. It was sure different in those days—but you can't tell me baseball is any better."

"It's going to be a big year," he said. "Some of the stars will be missing, sure, but there'll be a flock of youngsters breaking their necks to make good—and that's baseball."

United Nations Boxers Bow to U. S. Squad

NEW YORK, Jan. 21 (INS)—The boys of the United States army today proved they can give it to any one, including their allies after capturing eight of 10 bouts held last night among members of the United Nations.

Three of the triumphs won by the American doughboys were knockouts while two were technical K. O.'s. Lieut. Arthur Donovan, United States Maritime Commission, and Lou Ambers, former world's lightweight champion, and also of the Coast Guard, shared the referees' duty.

BRUINS, WINGS IN HOT TILT

By The Associated Press

The Boston Bruins will attempt to improve their first-place margin of seven points at the expense of the second-place Detroit Red Wings when they meet tonight in Detroit in one of the three games scheduled in the National Hockey League.

The other contests will find the New York Rangers meeting the Maple Leafs in Toronto and the Montreal Canadiens playing the Blackhawks in Chicago.

With Frankie Brimsek in a starring role, Boston has fared exceptionally well against the Wings this season. The Bruins have won three games and tied two others in six previous engagements with the Detroit sextet.

Brimsek starred in all and even in defeat his work was outstanding enough to cause the Wings' manager, Jack Adams, to remark that "Brimsek is the greatest goalkeeper in the history of hockey."

This was on the opening night of the season when the Bruins were blanked 3-0. Brimsek was called upon to handle 48 shots as compared to 22 by his rival, Johnny Mowers.

His clearing of the cage of possible tallies in the last three conflicts played against the Wings was equally spectacular.

The 27-year-old Eveleth, Minn., star stopped 107 out of 113 shots while Mowers knocked out 50 of a possible 58.

The Wings, in addition to trying to avenge these setbacks, will be aiming to increase their one-point advantage over the third-place Leafs.

The Leafs may run into a little difficulty as the Rangers will be at full strength for the first time in many years. The Rangers have been bolstered by the addition of Wingers Gus Mancuso and Joe Shack from the disbanded New Haven Eagles of the American Hockey League.

Montreal's chances of a play-off berth can be strengthened by a victory over the Hawks. The Habitants are only three points behind the fourth-place Chicagoans and are traveling at a hot pace. Montreal has won four out of its last six games.

LeBel Family in Skates Derby

UP AND OVER—Little Leo LeBel, Jr., of Meriden, Ct., makes barrel jumping seem easy as he sails over eight of them with the greatest of ease during an exhibition at Cunningham Park, Milton. Leo is going to give a command performance next Sunday afternoon at the Boston Garden, in the Silver Skates Derby.

More than 400 speed skaters from five New England states competing in a great racing card which is certain to provide thrills and laughs galore is really a show in itself. Then there will be a parade of great skating stars which in themselves would make a terrific ice show without a single speed skating event.

LEBEL FAMILY RETURNS

But both are blended into a four-hour show which tops anything ever seen around these parts.

The entire card, planned for months, was completed last week, but the committee, at a meeting yesterday, added two more features to give the Derby everything.

First, the LeBel family, barrel-jumping experts from Meriden, Ct., are returning to perform once again. Leo LeBel, son Leo and daughter Alarina really put on a spectacular stunt jumping routine on skates that's great. In fact the first public appearance of the LeBels was in the Silver Skates Derby several years ago. Since then they have come a long way and today they are considered one of the country's leading skating families.

Another feature will be the appearance of 11-year-old Alice Quessy of West Medford, who is a drum majorette. This little miss, who has won many prizes as a baton wielder, has perfected this art on the blades and fans will get a huge "kick" out of her performance.

KEEP POSTAL CARDS

These two additions complete the Derby card.

The heats have been drawn up and all contestants have been sent postal cards notifying them when to report. Keep these cards, for they are also needed for admission to the Garden.

Everything is ready — make plans to attend this great ice classic, for it's a cinch to dwarf all past shows and every Derby since 1936 has been "tops."

BUTLAND'S AT CAMP GORDON, GA.

Wilburn R. Butland is a private in Battery E, 472d Field Artillery, Camp Gordon, Georgia. Writes the 6-5 Red Sox hurler: "We get up at 6 a. m., fall in, run around the block one-half mile, eat breakfast, drill until 11 a. m. when we have an hour of calisthenics, followed by dinner. After dinner we drill until 5 p. m., dress and clean up to stand retreat at 5:20. Supper and listen to a lecture for an hour, after which we study the 11 general orders. Then we straighten out our clothes and lockers and go to bed at 9 p. m. . . ." Rather a full day for a ball player, whose day at home started at 12:30 p. m. and ended at 5.

Butland was anxious to know Mickey Harris' address. Both broke in together with the Sox in 1940 after Mickey had won 19 at Scranton, Bill 19 at Double-A Minneapolis. Both were sent back to Scranton on July 4 of '40, Mickey for "disciplinary measures," Butland with a sore arm. Mickey made his mark with the Sox in '41 but Butland had to begin all over again, this time at Louisville. He came back to the Sox last year, waited until midseason to start a game, wound up wining 7 and 1. We can recall Jimmie Foxx saying as far back as '40 that Butland would be a winner if given a chance to pitch. Evidently Jimmie wasn't supposed to voice his opinion.

This is the first year in 25 that Phil Troy, traveling secretary of the Red Sox, has been scheduled to spend the month of March in Boston. He's been "sec-ing" Braves and Red Sox since World War I . . . Vince Orlando, Freddie Stack and Tommy McHugh, Sox clubhouse boys, are all in the service, which means Johnny Orlando will have to round up a brand new crew before the Sox report. Roland Robinson, Jr., son of the Sox groundkeeper and himself a Fenway employe, is in the service . . . And Bobby Kelly, who clerked for Tommy Cummings at Fenway, is in Morocco . . . It may not affect the Sox pennant chances but 120 of Concessionaire Harry Stevens' men have joined the armed forces since September . . . The Red Sox employ 120 ushers, 60 ticket takers and sellers, 24 turnstile boys, 30 sweepers and 14 ground crew members during the season. They may have difficulty digging them up.

Neil Mahoney, Red Sox New England scout, likes the looks of Tillio Fratillo, Trade school catcher . . . Charlie Workman, new Braves outfielder, had a grand year at Nashville. He batted .327, knocked in 109 runs in 145 games, made 179 hits including 41 doubles, 7 triples and 29 homers for 321 total bases. He led the league in home runs and was fourth in total bases. He bats left, throws right and spent last spring in the Cleveland Indians camp at Clearwater. Because of Workman's great minor league record and the fact that Fernandez, West and Holmes have proved their worth, the Braves felt free to let Cooney and Paul Waner depart. Yet so short of infielders are the Braves that Fernandez may be shifted back to third base before the season is far advanced.

Smart move Bill McKechnie made in signing Estel Crabtree as outfielder, pinch hitter and coach. The former Cardinal may be 38 but he's still a better hitter than anybody on the Reds and he'll put some punch in the notoriously weak Reds' attack.

34 N. U. Shooters Receive Certificates

Successfully completing the National Rifle Association course in rifle marksmanship, 34 Northeastern Rifle Club members have been awarded certificates of excellence, it was announced by the group's faculty advisor, Prof. J. J. Devine.

Sponsored by the government, the course has been a Rifle Club activity at Northeastern. Plans have been made to open the course next semester to all students enrolled in the University.

A six-week program on the use and care of firearms, the course utilizes Army films in addition to oral instruction. A written final examination as well as a shooting exam is required before certificates are awarded by the National Association.

RACE WORLD FACES '43 WITH CONFIDENCE

The two-buck bettors may have to walk for the privilege of feeding the "iron men," but the nation's race tracks have about decided to put on a reasonable facsimile of "business as usual" this spring and summer, according to the Associated Press.

They've looked the whole thing over and made up their minds on the simple theory that transportation and one thing and another can't get any tougher.

Naturally, something new will be added here and there, like changes in state legislation and shifting of some meetings to different tracks. There's a possibility, too, a couple of the plants won't open their doors. But, generally speaking, the major horse havens will be available to anyone with the price of admission.

From reports reaching the Thoroughbred Racing Ass'ns, Inc. —the clearinghouse for the country's horse parks—as well as announcements by the tracks themselves, it appears that the only outfits on the "big apple" about which there are still some doubts are Saratoga, Delaware Park and the neat Garden State setup in New Jersey.

SPA HOPES TO RUN

And there's even some hope for these three, although Delaware has said it didn't see how it could get to the post unless the ban on automobile transportation is lifted, or, anyway, eased up a bit. Saratoga's prexy, George Bull, insists he's going ahead with plans to run at the Spa in August.

At Rockingham, the enterprising Lou Smith, a track operator who thinks mighty fast on his feet, is arranging for horse-drawn vehicles to bring the contributors to the New Hampshire plant.

What's more, don't be surprised if Lou comes up with some of those electric runabouts, like those which used to move the foot-weary walkers around the late lamented world's fair here.

Maryland's Governor, Herbert O'Conor, already has told the racing commission to draft a bill legalizing an increase in the 25 days of racing now permitted at any one plant, and erasing, or lowering, the approximately $3000 State license fee for race tracks.

HAWTHORNE ACCESSIBLE

The result of this, once it passes the Legislature, will be that Pimlico will play host not only to its own spring meeting, but also to those of Havre de Grace and Bowie.

Something similar may be tried in Chicago. At least one plan is for all five tracks in the Windy City neighborhood to hold their spring sessions at more accessible Hawthorne. However, some of the boys out that way aren't exactly in raptures over this idea.

Although the hay-burners' winter activities have been curtailed with the shut-down of Tropical and Hialeah and the continued blackout at Santa Anita, Hollywood and Del Mar, Fair Grounds in New Orleans may increase its meeting and Bay Meadows definitely will carry the California load. In addition, Hot Springs is well along with its plans for Arkansas, with horse-and-buggy transportation a large item.

Of New York state's five tracks, two—Jamaica and Aqueduct—already have been assigned their regular dates, and Belmont and Empire State are a cinch to run, leaving only Saratoga in any doubt. Suffolk Downs is scheduling a 90-day meeting, and Narragansett already has applied for two sessions—spring and fall—totaling 67 days.

There'll be a small headache, at best, in getting the Charles Town campaign under way. But since the operators of the West Virginia plant ran their whole spring meeting last year in the name of charity —giving the entire profits to war relief—a little thing like lack of gasoline—and money-making—probably won't make much difference to them.

'ALL' AWARDS ON DISPLAY; BELMONT HILL CENTER TOPS

By MIKE GILLOOLY

Although plans for the presentation of the grid awards to the Boston Evening American-Daily Record All-Scholastic taem are still pending, the jackets to be awarded the members of the Board of Coaches eleven will be on display in the windows of the James W. Brine Sporting Goods Co., Summer st., Boston, this week.

This will mark the second year that the popular store will be acknowledging this "All" team as the offical eleven for the 1942 season.

TWO IN SERVICE

Already, three members of the team have left their homes so that it will be impossible for them to receive their jackets in person. Ray Brickley, captain of the All team from Everett High, was the first to leave, joining the Army Air Corps last December. Only last week, Johnny "Bozo" Moran, Salem High, followed Brickley into the services. Moran is now in training with the Marines on Parris Island.

Al Cannava, outstanding back of the season, left the Medford High classrooms to pick up his studies at Notre Dame as a freshman. Cannava's packet, as well as those of Brickley and Moran, will be forwarded to the homes of the boys.

MANY COPY JACKET

The jackets are made of royal blue wool Melton cloth with white buttons and white and scarlet knit collar, cuffs and bottom. They are lined with a wool kasha lining and have a special emblem on the left breast.

The interest shown in the awards this year has been tremendous and the jackets are proving very popular among the fans as well as the recipients. Many high school and independent football teams have had copies made in school and team colors—a fitting tribute to the make of this "All Scholastic Football Jacket."

High School Gets Schroeder Trophy

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 21 (AP)—Naval Ensign Frederick Schroeder, national men's singles tennis champion, is going to sea—and leaving at Coronado High School his championship trophy.

It will be a memorial, he said, to a schoolboy friend, Bob Carrothers, who died in an automobile accident in 1940 and "who might have been champion himself if he had lived."

4 For Wilson

Dave Wilson, ace handicapper for the Green Race Special, came up with four more winners yesterday at New Orleans —Cauldron, $4.20; Gooseberry, $6.20; Pop's Pick, $3.20; and Toujour, $4.20.

Cauldron and Gooseberry paid off a $23.20 daily double while Pop's Pick, Wilson's code horse, was coupled with Toujour for a $6.70 parlay.

PIMLICO MAY GET 4 MEETS

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21 (AP)—Representatives of Maryland's four major race tracks agreed in a meeting that racing in Maryland should be continued in 1943, provided it does not interfere with the war effort.

However, they said that the daily license fee levied by the state against each track should be changed to a percentage tax.

The Batlimore Sun said it understood that the representatives of the tracks—Bowie, Havre de Grace, Laurel and Pimlico—also considered transferring meetings from outlying ovals to the more centrally located Pimlico plant in Baltimore.

Such a move would be agreeable to the tracks, the newspapers said, providing the managements would not have to meet a $3000 daily fee levied by Baltimore County under an old agreement.

At present, a $6000 daily license fee is levied by the state against each track for each day of racing. The state also receives two per cent of all money which passes through pari-mutuel windows.

Representatives of the tracks said they expected to confer with the Maryland Racing Commission to discuss the whole situation in detail, and agree on legislation to help the tracks.

Offensive Lift For Olympics

The Olympics can climb from fourth to third place in the Eastern League this week-end when they duel the Rovers Saturday and Sunday evenings.

The two rivals go into the week-end games separated by just five points. New York has amassed 32 points by virtue of 15 victories and two ties, while Boston has acquired 27 points with 13 wins and a tie. The Philly Falcons, however, top the Boston club by a single point.

The addition of Don Nichols at the defense and the return of Gerry Desrosiers will give the Harrington-coached team an offensive lift.

Pegasus Polo Club Poultry Farm Now

ROCKLEIGH, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP)—The Pegasus Club, once the scene of fashionable polo matches and the training camp of New York's professional football Yankees, has become a poultry farm for the duration. On the spot where the athletes once performed, 20,000 chickens now contribute to the nation's wartime food program.

LOPEZ BACKS FLORIDA OVER ROLFE'S BLAST

TAMPA, Fla., Jan. 21 (AP)—When Robert (Red) Rolfe, former New York Yankee third sacker, now baseball and basketball coach at Yale University, blasted the theory of spring baseball training in the South, he exercised the opinion of one man, Al Lopez, veteran catcher for the Pittsburgh Pirates, said here.

"There's nothing like training in a warm climate," said the Senor from Tampa, "especially for the older players."

VETS NEED HEAT

The conservative Lopez, who seldom becomes involved in controversial matters, stuck by his guns on the training question and said Rolfe evidently was speaking only for himself.

"It may be all right for a youngster to work out in the cold of the north," he continued, "but for the aging players, the kind you'll find in the majors this year, they need the warmth of Florida and California sunshine to get in best condition for a long, hard season.

"It's not because I live in the South that I feel this way about it. You can sweat easier in Florida or California and this is one thing the players need most during spring workouts.

NO TIME FOR OPINIONS

"But this isn't any time for the players to get involved in opinions," he added, "and we'll have to train the best way we can."

Lopez manages to keep in pretty good shape throughout the winter months and probably has less trouble getting into condition than some of the other players.

If you ask Lopez what he thinks about the coming pennant race he'll tell you his Pirate mates are a sure threat.

FATTA SUBS FOR WRIGHT

Carmen Fatta, New York, victor over Cleo Shans in his last start will prove a very capable substitute for the ex-featherweight champion, Chalky Wright, Cal., in the 10-round feature against Sal Bartolo, East Boston, tomorrow night at the Arena.

Wright has been unable to shake off an attack of grippe and wired Promoter Rip Valenti that he would be unable to fight.

James Sauer, All America and National amateur welterweight champion from Cambridge who is making his pro debut has been matched with Tony Delgado, Worcester, in a six rounder.
